How Pain Is Caused.

It is probably overstimulation of that part of the brain where consciousness exists. All sensations, even pleasant ones, become painful when excessive, and there is no definite characteristic that separates pain from pleasure, for what is painful at one time may be pleasant at another, and the difference lies in the sensitiveness of the conscious center and not in the external cause. Many sights and noises, for example, that are pleasant to a healthy man may become most painful to a sick one, and what is a pleasant taste or smell to a hungry man may be painful and repulsive to a full one. Excessive stimulation producing pain may be excited in the brain itself, as when a man "thinks" he is in pain, for there can be no difference between thinking one is in pain and being in pain, and the intelligence may elaborate a simple stimulus into a painful one, as when a cruel sight causes pain. In fact, any external or internal stimulus may produce overstimulation of the conscious center, and so become the immediate cause of pain.

How to Estimate Railroad Speed.

The speed of a railway train in miles per hour can, it is claimed, be found by counting the number of rails over which a car wheel passes in 20.8 seconds, because 20.8 seconds bears the same ratio to an hour that 30 feet, the length of a rail, bears to a mile. The fish plates or the thumps may be counted. Thus, supposing that 39 thumps are made by a wheel in 20.8 seconds, the train is then running at the rate of 39 miles an hour.

THE NEW EMANCIPATION

They See No Cause or Justification for Bolting—The Silver Cause is the People's Cause—Strong Words From Mr. W. J. Coughlin, Hon. Fisher H. Pearton, Hon. Peter J. Brady, Postmaster Pearson, Marcellus H. Fletcher and Many Other Well Known Democrats.

In order to test the feeling of the most prominent democrats of the city, The Sun yesterday interviewed a number of gentlemen whose statements are here subjoined. The idea that there is any popular opposition in the ranks of the democratic party to the Chicago ticket and platform so far as we can learn is utterly groundless. The rank and file of the democracy are all right, they are determined to vote the ticket as usual and never had they a more important issue to pass upon at the polls. The currency question is now squarely before the people for settlement and upon its right settlement depends the future well being of the country. That the gold standard is responsible for the greatest part of the distress, the depression in business, the strikes, and panics which have afflicted this country for many years, is proved beyond question by the most cumulative arguments while the arguments to the contrary are mainly assumptions, that cannot be sustained by any tangible proof.

In the appended interviews will be found the opinions of some of the best informed democrats of the city, men who have studied the currency question thoroughly, and who have concluded that the action of the Chicago convention is right, that it is calculated to restore prosperity and redeem the country from financial subjection to England and from the grasp of its own overgrown gold bugs and monopolists.

In Postmaster Pearson's interview there is a most remarkable statement, showing the great scarcity of gold, and showing, too, that although gold is the standard of values, the real circulating medium is silver. If this be the case, why not have silver placed where it belongs, on a level with gold as money at a ratio of 16 to 1.

We give the foremost place to the views of Mr. Wm. J. Coughlin, who to our own knowledge has been preaching free silver like the voice of one crying in the wilderness for years past.

He has just returned from the west, where he caught the sentiment of the people and knows just how they stand on the subject.

The general question submitted to those interviewed was as follows:

"Should democrats support the ticket of the national party nominated at Chicago, and why? Do you see any reason for bolting the ticket?"

William J. Coughlin.

Democrats should support the ticket because there is not an undemocratic plank in the party platform.

This year, for the first time in a generation, the common people, the business men, the real democracy built the party platform—the planks presented by the politician and the plutocrats were shaky, had wavey edges, were misfits and were rejected.

As I interpret democracy, the party's present declaration of principles is no new gospel, it is the old creed embossed so that even the blind may read. The people had almost lost sight of it in the near past because of the sophistry and chicanery of selfish place-seekers. Because—

The standard-bearers are democrats.

Bryan is young, it is said, well, is youth a crime? He is older than was the writer of the Declaration of Independence, than Napoleon when he ruled in France, than Burke and Pitt when their statesmanship compelled the world's attention, or the Saviour when he pronounced the sermon on the mount. Sewall typifies the mercantile life of the nation at its best. Because of its truly American position on the financial question.

As to bi-metallic money, there are those who now say there is danger in this. Notwithstanding that it had been a plank in every republican and democratic platform for 20 years, inserted there only to deceive the people. Such was the money of our country from 1792 to 1873.

The first panic I remember was when silver was demonetized. The country has never recovered from it. One half our money metal for money purposes was destroyed. This great contraction of the currency abnormally enhanced the value of our measure of exchange, the gold dollar. Relief came only on the passage of the Bland-Allison coinage of silver act. Prices began to advance and more prosperous times set in. Another contraction later produced more hard times. Then the Sherman act voted for. I believe, by the late Governor Greenbalge, a season of great prosperity followed the passage of this act.

When the threat came to reveal it, the present at last panic set in. The Wall street dollar swapper could not corner both metals. They caused our gold to be exported and told us our silver dollar was only worth about 80 cents. Yet the day that the Sherman act was repealed the silver dollar was worth 1.02 cents in gold. The money traffickers promised us prosperity—that gold would flow into the country. Did it?

The winter after the repeal of the Sherman act 3,500,000 men and young persons were thrown out of employment. You will remember that soup houses were established in Boston; hundreds of banks and railroad systems went into receivers hands. Never before was bankruptcy so numerous, and to cap it all we have bonded or mortgaged our country and our families for 30 years to foreign money mongers, all to sustain our gold basis. This the gold worshipers told us would restore prosperity—Is it restored?

The prices of all forms of prosperity, except gold, at present are the lowest ever known in this country. Prices are still falling, we are on a gold basis.

Prosperity and a falling market are deadly enemies. Bi-metallis is said to be dishonest because it will advance prices. Protection also implies advancing prices so that if McKinleyism signified anything it means the creation of dishonest money, so called.

The money brokers us that there are millions of idle money in Europe awaiting investment here for us to pay interest on if we forswear allegine to our party and principles. Democracy implies that we have millions of gold and silver in our western hills that we can employ tens of thousands of now idle men in our mines and when we have a sufficiency for ourselves we will export the surplus to Europe and the effete east to earn interest for us.

I have followed this financial question for 25 years and every financial statement made by currency contractionists has been proven by time to be financial falsehood. Is the gold dollar an honest dollar? Ask the Nebraska farmer whom I met at his home week before last, who has to give 16 2-3 bushels of oats for one of those dollars, honest forsooth. This farmer represents 35 millions of our people engaged in agriculture. If these derive no profit from their toil, where are our eastern manufacturers to find a market for their product? Ask those western people, republican and democrat, many of them representing the best blood of New England, why they support the democratic ticket. They have studied this money question. They want national bimetallism. American money for Americans—honest money. I consider this the only real great question since that of slavery and if for no other reason every democrat should loyally support the ticket and be thankful for the privilege of participating in this new emancipation.

Hon. Fisher H. Pearson.

The democratic platform and candidates are highly satisfactory to me. The convention was a mass meeting of the people, and they chose, as the common people in their good sense always choose, the democratic party to fight their battle for reform.

The free and unlimited coinage of silver, the rallying cry of the party, in my opinion, will bring about a revival of business, will turn over to us the entire trade of all the silver using nations of the world, and therefore will force European nations to remonetize siver to protect their trade; will increase the wages of labor by increasing the demand for laborers and will deliver the treasury of the United States from the absolute control which the great banking houses now have.

The other planks in the platform are of minor importance compared to the silver plank, though all are in the interest of government by the people, and are the outcome of and in thorough accord with the most enlightened thought of the day upon social and economic questions.

If the voters of the country will study the issues presented by the two parties for themselves and refuse to allow themselves to be deluded or bull dozed by the gold stradard press or by selfish moneyed interests. I believe before election most will be thoroughly convinced of the truth of the silver cause. Bryan and Sewall will be elected by the most tremendous majority ever known in American politics. I have nothing but contempt for those democrats, who having received every honor which the party could give, now refuse to submit to the will of the majority. It is a small loss when they leave us for good. It would have been better for the party had they left it before.

Hon. Peter J. Brady.

"Being a democrat who believes in majority rule, I can see no good reason for bolting the ticket. No convention could frame a platform to satisfy every member of the party, but in this case the body should accept the action of the majority. With rare exceptions, I believe the democratic party here and elsewhere will vote solidly for the ticket in November. I believe democrats should support their party nominees in city, state and nation. I don't think the adoption of the free silver plank excuses anybody for bolting the ticket. The western states at the last presidential election voted against their own convictions for the gold standard and we should not complain if some of us have to do the same occasionally. United action is necessary to success, and I believe that even here in Massachusetts Bryan and Sewall will poll the full party strength.

Postmaster Pearson.

I do not see why any democrat should bolt the ticket. I have looked the platford carefully over and I fail to see any point in which it is not calculated to benefit the people of this nation. Of course I do not approve of the action of the Chicago convention in refusing to endorse the present administration. The administration did the best it could under the unusual conditions to preserve the credit of the government and avert a money panic. I am fully convinced that free coinage would benefit the country at large, and those who believe otherwise should recollect that had a gold plank been adopted instead of the silver plank, the eastern democrats would have expected those in the west to accept it and support the ticket.

I wish to say that in regard to the Young Men's Democratic club, that that body has drawn up a series of resolutions so sweeping that very few will be willing to accept them entirely. Very few democrats will want to go on record as opposing Cleveland and being in favor of populism. In opposing the financial policy the club has run counter to the policy of the party on other important matters without any apparent necessity.

When asked if he received much gold in his business transactions in the post office Mr. Pearson answered that inside two years in a business amounting to a million dollars, he had received but $15 in gold. This shows very forcibly that silver and paper money are now the principal mediums of exchange and that gold is very scarce and has been for some years past. I dare say that this absence of gold in regular business transactions is as noticeable in other lines of business as in the post office.

I believe that the defection in the democratic party will be entirely overcome before election day. The democrats certainly cannot vote for McKinley and Hobart.

James F. Owens, Esq.

"It is extremely important, this year above all others, that every individual in this country should exercise his very best judgment in the selection of candidates for whom he will vote irrespective of party lines.

There is no question but what the country is in a very serious condition, and that something must be done to prevent a continuance of the present state of affairs. For a remedy we are compelled at the present time to look to the candidates and the platforms of the two great parties. Personally I had made up my mind some time ago to vote for the candidates of the party that suggested the means of bringing about better and more prosperous conditions, and as usual I find after carefully looking over the platforms of the two parties, and satisfying myself as to the suitability of the candidates, that the only hope of future prosperity lies with the democratic party, and I will vote for its candidates, Bryan and Sewall.

At the present time it looks to me as though it would be impossible to prevent the nomination of Geo. Fred Williams for governor this fall. He undoubtedly at the present time has the backing of his party in nearly all the cities and towns in this commonwealth outside of Boston, and the dissatisfaction there appears to be very slight and immaterial when properly analyzed.

The only other candidate suggested is Mr. Gargan, a very bright, capable and able man, and yet bright, capable and able as he is and has been for the past twenty years the gentlemen who offer him their aid and comfort if he will consent to stand as a candidate have never thought of him before, although always available and almost certain to secure the nomination if he said but the word.

To the uninitiated it may appear strange but to the initiated very plain.

If my political judgment is worth anything, I would predict that Mr. Gargan will refuse to be a candidate and ostensible democrats who offer him their support will be obliged to secure some other stepping stone to reach and maintain the position they have lost and are so anxious to again obtain and hold.

John W. McEvoy, Esq.

Here is what John W. McEvoy writes: Editor Sun—"When such a young and progressive country as ours, teeming with natural resources and inhabited by a free, inteligent and industrious people, becomes the mere creature of a few New York bankers, it is a humiliating spectacle, if not a national disgrace.

"That the money question is the root of the present evil I think must be conceded, and while I am not quite persuaded that the free and unlimited coinage of silver is the remedy to be applied, I am satisfied that a change in our currency system is absolutely imperative.

The change must first receive deliberate discussion before adoption by congress and should it prove detrimental our people are patriotic enough to demand its repeal and suggest other remedies.

Confiding therefore in the wisdom of the majority, and in the need of immediate change in our financial legislation, I accept the Chicago platform and will contribute in every way to the success of its candidates.

"George Fred Williams is an able, fearless man, whose sympathies are really with the people. His reception at the ensuing state convention will be grandly enthusiastic and his nomination irresistable."

member of the executive committee of the democratic city committee from Ward nine said: "I am for Bryan and Sewall because they are democrats standing squarely on a platform whose every plank is democratic. It seems to me that the national democratic party, through the action of the Chicago convention, has got back to first principles, has become again what it was in the days when Jefferson fought the tories and the federalists and Jackson crushed the United States bank and destroyed nullification—the party of the common people—democracy in fact as well as in name.

"I am of course aware that some who have acted with the democratic party have announced their intention of opposing the democratic national ticket, of voting for McKinley or a gold democrat, if one is nominated. This they have a perfect right to do. One of the privileges of American citizenship is to vote as one pleases. But no man can serve two masters in politics. No man can oppose the democratic ticket and retain a title to the name of democrat. No man who is out to defeat the democratic ticket can remain a member of a democratic committee or be eligible for nomination to any office in a democratic convention."

B. D. O'Connell, Esq.

"There is one thing as sure as night follows day that this country must have a change from the present monetary standard or we are absolutely sure of bankruptcy and ruin. I am heart and soul in favor of the election of Bryan and Sewall and the enforcement of the Chicago platform and equally for the nomination and election of George Fred Williams as governor of this state. John B. Moran's letter against Williams is the most ridiculous thing I have read for a long time and is entirely unworthy of one claiming to be a lawyer. It contradicts itself and condems the author in the same language that it was trying to condemn Mr. Williams who is head and shoulders above those fellows who are carping, many of them from motives of envy. The first time I saw Mr. Williams was in the Supreme Judicial court in Boston, when the ability he displayed and the attention and respect of the court compelled me to inquire who he was, and his firm does a large business owing as much to the confidence of the people in him, as to his ability, and a more courageous and honest man does not exist. There is a great deal of humbug about these gold bugs, and their stock phrases of 'sound money,' 'depreciation' and 'repudiation' must be crammed down their throats. Most of them are umbugs as well as goldbugs.

Marcellus H. Fletcher.

Replying to your question I will say I shall vote the straight democratic ticket this fall as usual. How any democrat under the circumstances can do otherwise I fail to see. Our convention was regularly called and found upon assembling to be more than two-thirds in favor of the present candidates and platform. That is sufficient for me and ought to be for any other democrat. Either Bryan or McKinley will be the next president, and many democrat who would vote for McKinley is a democrat no longer. If the currency question was to decide my vote I should still vote for Bryan as McKinley is quite as much of a silver man (as his record shows) as he and not half as outspoken and honest. Then let every democrat stand up and be counted for Bryan and Sewall. Let us also work for George Fred Williams' election for governor.

Rep. O'Connor.

Rep. John J. O'Connor, the young executive from Ward five said: "Bryan and Sewall should be supported by every democrat and any executive who feels he cannot support the ticket should resign. I will do what I can to rally every voter in my ward to the support of the ticket. As an executive I would not care to say anything about the gubernatorial nomination because I think it would be premature. Of course personally I have my views and my friends know how I stand," said Joe with a knowing wink. The young representative's friends say he is a staunch Williams man.

Councilman Miskella.

I am a supporter of Bryan and Sewall. They were nominated by a majority of the delegates to the Chicago convention and are the choice of the national democracy. I also believe the nomination for governor this year belongs to George Fred Williams because of the service rendered the party in the past and also for the great fight he made last year.

Michael J. Garvey.

"I am with the party. Bryan and Sewall are the nominees and I will support them. I am a strong Williams man and I would like to see him nominated for governor."

John E. Maguire.

"Of course I am out for Bryan and Sewall. Williams is a fighter and to my mind is the man to lead the forces in this state this fall. I would not like to see any split in the party."

Joseph F. Gormley.

I am a free silver man, and therefore am for Bryan and Sewell. Count me with Williams every time, too. My vote will go to delegates pledged to him.

Councilman Thornton.

Bryan and Sewall are my favorites and will get my vote. As for Williams, I do not see how any out and out democrat can vote against him. I believe he deserves the nomination, and he will get it.

Wm. C. Doherty.

The Ward Three executive is Wm. C. Doherty, the foundryman. "I am with the party as every democrat should be," said Will. "I will vote for Bryan and Sewall and urge my friends to do the same."

Mr. Doherty is also a Williams man, believing that the party should recognize past good service.

Thomas F. Garvey.

Ex-Councilman Thomas F. Garvey told The Sun reporter that his position is well understood. "I believe that the free silver cause is a righteous one, and so I allied myself with the forces. It follows that I will support Bryan and Sewall. You will also find me in the Williams ranks, because I believe the Dedham statesman will make an admirable gubernatorial candidate."

John J. Burns.

John J. Burns, vice president of the democratic city committee is a strong free silver advocate. He says: "I was an admirer of Bryan when he was in congress and I am still an enthusiastic supporter of him. I am a free silver man; also a believer in the Chicago platform, and, therefore, I will support Bryan and Sewall. Likewise I am a Williams follower and will do what I can to secure his nomination."

Wm. A. Hogan, Esq.

William A. Hogan, Esq., of the democratic executive committee spoke as follows: "I am not committed to free silver, but I am open to conviction on the question. Bryan and Sewall were nominated by a democratic convention and it is our duty as democrats to support them. So far as George Fred Williams is concerned he should be renominated. His work in the last campaign should be recognized by the state convention."

2 O'CLOCK

HARRITY GETS OUT

He Will no Longer Fight For Gold Bugs.

TAMMANY'S MIND IS MADE UP FOR TICKET.

Will Support the Chicago Ticket and Platform.

Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—William F. Harrity, until recently chairman of the Democratic national committee, and for years a leader in the party councils, has made the interesting announcement that he has retired from active politics. In answer to inquiries upon the subject, Mr. Harrity made the following statement:

"Yes, it is true that I have determined to withdraw from active participation in political affairs. For several years past I have been accorded some prominence in the management and leadership of the Democratic party, but I now desire to take my place in the ranks, except in so far as I may have duties to perform as the Pennsylvania member of the Democratic national committee.

"In taking this step, I wish to express my warm appreciation of the personal and political friendship which I have enjoyed during my political career. I have no resentments for my enemies, and nothing but gratitude for my friends. No man ever had warmer or more loyal and devoted friends than I have had. These friends I still hope to retain, even though I have withdrawn from active political association with them; and if the time shall come when I can serve or aid them, it will be my pleasure to respond to their calls or demands.

"I shall continue to take a general interest in politics, and shall always be ready to do whatever I reasonably and consistently can to promote the success of the Democratic party, but I shall absolutely refrain from any participation whatever in matters that relate to party organization and management. I have given much of my time, and a good deal of my energies to political matters since 1882, when I first began to take an active part in politics. I have now concluded to take a rest from politics, so to speak, and to devote all of my energies to the management of the affairs of the Equitable Trust company, to the practice of my profession and to my private business matters."

Mr. Harrity's declaration is understood by his friends to mean that he will give no attention to the work of state or county conventions, or of state or county committees, and that he will not in any way endeavor to influence, secure or control political nominations or appointments of any character whatever.

ANTI-SILVER DEMOCRATS.

Call Upon Bay State Voters to Work For Gold Standard.

Boston, Aug. 1.—The gold standard Democrats of this city, headed by Nathan Matthews, Jr., and Frederick O. Prince, have issued an address to the Democratic voters of the state, asking cooperation in the interest of the gold standard. The address, after reviewing the action of the Chicago convention, with a criticism of the platform and the candidates, goes on to state that under these circumstances, it becomes the duty of the Democracy of Massachusetts to reaffirm the platform adopted at the Massachusetts state convention of April last. After quoting the financial planks in the state platform, and a review of the silver question, from an eastern standpoint, the address further says:

"After earnest and careful consideration, we believe it to be our duty, as loyal members of the Democratic party, to oppose the Chicago platform, and to urge our fellow Democrats in Massachusetts to do what they can to secure the nomination, by the approaching state convention, of the candidates for the electoral college, who, if chosen thereto, will vote only for such candidates for president and vice president as believe in, and will uphold the principles of honest money, private liberty, and orderly government, for which Democracy has hitherto stood.

"We therefore urge the Democratic voters of Massachusetts to co-operate with us. We urge them to send honest money delegates to the state convention, to the end that the body may make a sand for true Democratic doctrines; may support the state platform of April, 1896, rather than the Chicago platform of July; may nominate candidates for the electoral college who, if chosen thereto, will vote only for such men for president and vice president as believe in honest money and the principles laid down in the aforesaid state platform, and may select as candidates for state offices Democrats of like belief.

"We appeal to our fellow Democrats throughout the state to spare no personal effort to protect the party and the nation from the greatest danger that has confronted either for more than a generation. We appeal to them to unite in a determined effort to save the Democracy from absorption in Populism, to protect the people from the incalculable evils of a depreciated currency, and to save the country from repudiation and dishonor."

FOR BRYAN AND SEWALL.

Tammany Braves Have Thus Declared Their Political Intentions.

New York, Aug. 1.—Large oil paintings of Bryan and Sewall adorn the front of Tammany Hall, attracting the attention of the passersby. The pictures were put up yesterday, immediately after the executive committee voted to endorse the ticket nominated at Chicago by the Democratic national convention. The motion to endorse was carried by acclamation, after a resolution to delay action until after the state convention had acted had been voted down by the decisive vote of 71 to 4. The executive committee was called to order by James J. Martin. After the roll call, John C. Sheehan introduced the resolution endorsing the Chicago candidates. It is as follows:

Resolved, That the executive committee of the Democratic organization of the city and county of New York, in regular meeting assembled, in Tammany hall, does hereby accept and approve the nomination of William J. Bryan of Nebraska for president and Arthur Sewall of Maine for vice president of the United States, as the wise determination of the Democratic national convention recently held in Chicago, and we pledge our loyal and hearty support to their candidacy.

Bryan's Eastern Trip.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 1.—Mr. Bryan has announced his itinerary for his eastern trip, to meet the notification committee from the Democratic national convention in New York on Aug. 12. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will leave Lincoln Friday evening, Aug. 7, arriving in Chicago on Saturday afternoon. They will stop over Sunday, and will leave Chicago Sunday night, reaching Pittsburg Monday night. They will stay over night in Pittsburg, and leave for New York early Tuesday morning, arriving there about 6:30 Tuesday evening. The national committee will meet in New York at the time of the notification, and campaign work will be discussed. From New York, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will go to Bath, Me., and spend a few days with the Sewalls. The return trip will not be arranged until after the New York meeting. Mr. Bryan is not making any dates for speeches at this time, and will not do so until after the national committee has been consulted.

Tariff a Secondary Issue.

Bath, Me., Aug. 1.—Arthur Sewall expresses himself upon the issues of the campaign as follows: "The only issue of the campaign is free silver. The Republicans have been trying to force the tariff to the front, but cannot do it. It is such a secondary issue that the people are not thinking about it. The trouble is not there. The people want prosperity, which is having every man at work and all the wheels moving. They have tried high tariff and low tariff, and matters have been continually growing worse. The Democratic party have decided that the trouble lies in the financial system, and the remedy is the remonetization of silver. The people have decided the same way, and what they want they will have; also what the people want is right; it cannot be otherwise."

Stevenson Will Get Out.

Detroit, Aug. 1.—Elliott G. Stevenson, whose resignation as chairman of the Democratic state central committee, the committee refused to accept, will again tender his resignation, and will insist on its acceptance. Mr. Stevenson, who has been prominently known as a gold standard Democrat, now says that he appreciates the embarrassments, personal and political, that would be connected with his retention of the chairmanship, and that he intends to remove these for the sake of his party's success and his own peace.

The Business Men's Campaign.

Boston, Aug. 1.—A business men's non-partisan campaign committee, in the interest of the gold standard, was organized at the Boston Merchants' association yesterday afternoon. J. R. Leeson was elected president. The executive committee was empowered to secure headquarters and to enter upon the campaign at once. Circulars will be sent next week to the business men, asking them to ally themselves with the organization.

Jones For Governor.

Sedalia, Mo., Aug. 1.—The state Populist convention nominated O. D. Jones of Edina for governor on the first ballot. Jones ran for supreme court judge on the Populist ticket two years ago, and is the author of "Tocsin of Alarm," and other works on reform.

Williams to Stump In Maine.

Boston, Aug. 1.—George F. Williams, leader of the free silver forces in Massachusetts, has decided to take part in the Maine campaign. He will begin a tour of the state Aug. 24, and will be assisted by other silver men.

Russian Town Aflame.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 1.—A terrible fire has been raging at Libau since Wednesday, and the firemen are unable to cope with the situation. Libau is a seaport town of Russia, in the province of Court, and on the Baltic. Its population is between 25,000 and 30,000.

Irish Land Bill Goes Ahead.

London, Aug. 1.—The house of lords has passed to its second reading the Irish land bill, after eight hours debate, but without division.

Blockade Not Contemplated.

London, Aug. 1.—The Berlin correspondent of The Standard states that the powers have no intention of blockading Crete.

How to Make Hat Flowers.

Flowers made of taffeta silk are one of the season's most popular garniture for all kinds of headgear. They are very effective, and may be made at home at comparatively small cost, and equal in every respect to those bought at a high priced milliner's. A double ruffle of the silk is joined and gathered in the center, something after the fashion of a rosette. The centers must be purchased and should be of the same shade as those of the natural flower. Poppies, roses and larger flowers develop most satisfactorily, the smaller blossoms requiring professional construction.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within the County of Middlesex:

Respectfully libels and represents Martha E. Judkins of Lexington in said county, that she was lawfully married to Leonard C. Judkins of South Lewleston, in the state of Maine, at Lowell, in said county, the twenty-sixth day of January, A. D., 1879, and thereafterwards your libellant and the said Leonard C. Judkins lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth; to wit, at said Lowell and at Quincy that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said Leonard C. Judkins, being wholly regardless of the same, at said Lowell on or about the thirteenth day of July, A. D., 1892, did utterly desert your libellant and has continued such utter desertion up to the date hereof being more than three consecutive years prior thereto.

And your libellant further says and avers that being of sufficient ability the said Leonard C. Judkins, cruelly and wantonly refused and still refuses to provide suitable or proper support or maintenance for your libellant.

Also, that said Judkins has since his marriage to your libellant contracted gross and confirmed habits of intoxication.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Leonard C. Judkins and that the care and custody of their minor child whose name is Walter E. Judkins, born July 20th, 1879, may be awarded to your libellant.

Dated the twenty-seventh day of July, A. D., 1896. MARTHA E. JUDKINS.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

MIDDLESEX, ss.

Superior Court, July 29th, A. D., 1896.

Upon the libel aforesaid, it is ordered that the libellant notify the libellee to appear before our Justices of said Court, at Cambridge, in said county, on the first Monday of september next, by causing an attested copy of said libel and of the order thereon, to be published in the Lowell Daily Sun a newspaper published in Lowell, in the county of Middlesex, once a week, three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the said last mentioned day, and that an attested copy of said libel and order thereon be sent by registered letter to the residence of the libellee as set out in the libel, that he may then and there show cause, if any he have, why the prayer in said libel set forth should not be granted.

THEO. C. HURD, Clerk.

A true copy of the libel and order thereon.

Attest, THEO. C. HURD, Clerk.

FOR PRESIDENT,

WILLIAM J. BRYAN of Nebraska

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,

ARTHUR SEWALL of Maine

Down with the gold bug dictators.

Hoke Smith has come out for free silver boldly and conscientiously. He is a man of principle.

The democrats of this state are getting ready to down the gold bug state committee at the state convention.

Hanna is now entrenched in the centre of the gold power and millions of dollars will be used to defeat the will of the people and elect McKinley and Hobart.

The clergymen of some eastern churches have taken to talking sound money. Of late it seems that certain clergymen can talk anything but sound theology and to finance their advice will be as vague as in morals.

Those who assail democrats as anarchists, socialists and so on because of seeking the restoration of constitutional money, are simply incorrigible. The constitution has nothing of anarchy but it provided for free silver just what the people want to relieve them from, distress.

The seductive cry is raised by the democratic manager that their free silver ideas would ruin the capitalists, and therefore would benefit the poor people.—Mail.

There is no such cry raised anywhere in this country. Free silver is not advocated that it may injure anybody but that it may secure fair play for everybody and prevent gold bugs, bankers and foreign shylocks from robbing the people.

Francis X. Fitzpatrick, the delegate to the Chicago convention whose credentials were used by the late Governor Russell, is out in a long and scurrilous article trying to show that George Fred Williams was responsible for challenging Mr. Russell's vote in the convention. Jerry O'Sullivan claims to be responsible for that challenge without any suggestion from Mr. Williams, and was fully justified under every rule of parliamentary law.

ANOTHER INVESTIGATION.

It appears that there is to be another investigation, not on the horse deal, but on the job of repairs on city hall. It appears that H. R. Barker & Co., are suspected of overcharging for the work. This is one of the most respectable firms in the city of Lowell, and if it cannot be trusted, we should like to know what firm in the city or elsewhere can be trusted. We surmise that the bill of the H. R. Barker firm will be found to be all right, and that the suspicions of those who call for the investigation will be found wholly groundless.

THE GOLD BUGS.

The gold bug bolters are out in a manifesto against the ticket with Nathan Matthews as the leader. Mr. Matthews makes a strong appeal to the democracy of this state in behalf of what he calls sound money, but what is in reality most unsound and dishonest. Mr. Gargan has declined to run as candidate for governor. We always believed Mr. Gargan to be a high-minded, whole-souled gentleman, far above the grovelling, greedy, ungenerous, cowardly sentiment by which Nathan Matthews and his henchmen are influenced in this contest. Why does Mr. Matthews not run for governor? There is no honest democrat in the state who would not be heartily glad to see him accept the nomination in order to get the opportunity to vote against him. If the gold democrats put up a candidate, they will only demonstrate in what supreme contempt they are held by the rank and file of the democracy of this state. By all means let Mr. Matthews run as a candidate for governor that he may receive the castigation he so fully deserves at the hands of the democracy of Massachusetts.

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

THE SILVER MINE OWNERS.

The Claim of the New Orleans Picayune That They Would Be Enriched.

Now, Mr. Editor, I want to ask how the silver owners are to be enriched by the free coinage of silver? Even though the silver owners should be enriched thereby, does that fact count as an argument against the restitution of the rights of silver if its free coinage would result in a general benefit to a majority of the people? The Picayune advocates a small duty on imported sugar, but to be consistent it ought to oppose any such duty on the ground that it would result in a benefit to the sugar planters. Can The Picayune think of any legislative act or government policy, however wisely devised for the general good of the whole people, that does not greatly favor some while it does not favor others? As a matter of fact, however, according to The Picayune's own statement (whether it be taken "a-comin or a-gwine"), there is no ground for this bugaboo story about the great benefits the silver owners are to derive from free silver coinage.

If the "50 cent dollar" theory of The Picayune be true, the miners can reap no profit from their silver bullion more than they are now getting. If the dollars they will have coined are to be worth only 50 cents, how in the name of Julius Cæsar can they derive any profit from a transaction wherein they must lose at least 3 cents on each dollar they have coined? The silver bullion in a silver dollar is today worth more than 50 cents, and if The Picayune correctly states the case there would be an absolute loss instead of an enormous gain to the owners of silver bullion in free coinage. But The Picayune did not mean that, for that is too self stultifying a position even for The Picayune to take on the financial question. I believe that it is a principle of law that where a doubt exists as to the true meaning of any clause it must be construed in harmony with some other existing clause on the same subject. Now, by the application of this test will we endeavor to arrive at what The Picayune did mean when it spoke of the enormous profit that free silver coinage would bring to the owners of silver bullion. Here is what The Picayune stated in a very positive sort of way on March 2, 1895:

"Such, in brief, are the goldbugs, but it will be worth while to inquire who are the silver bugs. First and foremost are the silver miners, who by the adoption of free silver coinage will at once have the value of their product raised from 70 cents an ounce to 129 cents an ounce."

Now, 129 cents an ounce is the coinage value of silver, and this statement therefore is an unequivocal declaration that all that silver needs to restore it to its old value is free coinage at the old ratio. But The Picayune's statement involves also the admission that the present low value of silver bullion (as declared in terms of gold) was the direct result of the demonetization of silver.

Therefore the demonetization was an outrage and robbery of the silver men, and a restoration of the old order of things, which would be an act of simple justice to them, would at the same time make their products as valuable as ever. The old mint price of $1.29 per ounce would be at once restored. If the value of silver should be $1.29 an ounce, who will begrudge it to the men who have silver bullion? And how can The Picayune find it in its bowels to complain and rant about a 50 cent dollar that would distress and injure the poor workingman when by its own logic and reasoning such a dollar cannot result from free silver coinage?—O. P. Q. in New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The "Foreign Investor" Bogy.

In fact, if foreign investments were stopped altogether for a spell, the United States and the vast bulk of her people would be better off. It would be the worse for the American goldbug capitalists and speculators, of course. They would lose much of their profits. But that loss would be the American people's gain, for it is out of the universally fleeced American people, and more particularly the American producer and the American workingman, that these profits ultimately come.

Therefore it is that five-sixths of the American people do not care a snap of their fingers for the displeasure of the Lombard street capitalist, and that they bid him go his way while they go theirs. It is by reason largely of these unneeded foreign investments, anyway, that the brokers of the east are screwing 18 and 20 per cent interest for money loans out of impoverished debtors in the west, and that they are foreclosing mortgages on the homesteads of these poor people every day.

The goldbug lender who exacts from the borrower, labor or products equal to 150 cents on the (gold) dollar has had and is having his inning. The borrower, who is the producer and worker, is going soon to take his.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

What Free Coinage Will Do.

I think the free coinage of silver would benefit materially the great masses of our people in Mississippi and in the south and throughout the Union. It would tend to reduce the value on purchasing power of the gold dollar, now unduly and abnormally appreciated throughout the world, and it would to that extent deprive holders of money and securities for money of an unjust advantage now held by them. Under the present system wealth has so concentrated in a few great financial centers that it is in the power of a few men, acting in concert, to derange at any time the business of the world by locking up the present insufficient supply of money, and thus produce panic and disaster. They will resort to this if they think that thereby they can prevent free coinage and an overthrow of their dangerous monopoly. This has already been threatened. In the end, however, the cause of the people will triumph.—Senator J. Z. George.

A PROMINENT CONVERT.

Why George Fred Williams of Massachusetts Is Against the Goldbugs.

George Fred Williams, who, as a gold champion, made a national reputation in his one term as a congressman, who last fall led the Democratic state ticket, and who was one of the four delegates at large to Chicago, in a recent interview made some very interesting and forcible declarations on the political situation.

Regarding the assertion attributed to him that more than one-half the Democrats of Massachusetts favor free silver, Mr. Williams reiterated his statement.

"I shall feel happy in the coming campaign," Mr. Williams went on, "as it will be fought out squarely on a free coinage platform. I believe the great issue of today to be the money question, over which there will be a great uprising.

"I tell you that the people have begun to get their eyes open. I'm against the present monetary system of the country, which will be continuous as long as this money combination of Lombard street, Wall street and State street feels disposed to uphold it."

"I did, and the purchasing clause of the Sherman law was repealed. We were told by party leaders that if this clause was repealed the trouble would cease. There has been no sign of improvement since this act was repealed. They have applied all the remedies; but, one after another, they have failed. I am in favor of a gold standard if it is properly guarded, but today it is not. And it cannot be until the power of the moneyed interests is severed; and this can only be done by driving them to the wall.

"I confess that I did not realize until three years ago, when we began to issue bonds, in what a partisan spirit I had looked at the silver question. I began to study it and have changed my mind considerably, until I am now convinced that for every $1,000,000 damage done by the alleged evil of free coinage the people of the country would be robbed of $5,000,000 by Hanna and his trust if they get control of the country.

"The people of the west and south have been long and patient sufferers. Four years ago they gave up their convictions for the north and the east under a promise that we would better them after election. We haven't done it. We haven't been honest with them. Their conditions are worse today than ever. Money is dearer, and farm products are cheaper."—Boston Herald.

An obligation is honestly discharged by canceling it in dollars that are worth as much as they were when the debt was contracted. None but shylocks want dollars that are worth more.

A happy man is a healthy man, and a healthy man is generally happy. You never saw a happy man in your life who had indigestion. If a man gets up in the morning with a foul taste and foulier breath; if he feels listless and sluggish; if he is dizzy and blind the minute he steps out of bed; if his breakfast doesn't taste good; if he feels utterly incapable of work, it is a pretty sure sign that his digestion is out of order—that his principal trouble is constipation. If he lets this condition run on, there is no telling where it will stop. Nine-tenths of all human sickness comes from constipation. The first thing that every doctor asks when he is called to see a patient is whether the bowels are in good order. It is nonsense to call a doctor for such a simple thing. It is nonsense to let such a simple thing grow into such a serious thing, as it always does if neglected. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They not only afford immediate and pleasant relief from all the distressing symptoms, but they cure permanently and positively. There are 10,000 medicines that can be taken, to give temporary relief. The "Pleasant Pellets" are the only things that really cure.

There are plenty of druggists who will try to sell you something else. You know just as well as we do that an honest druggist wouldn't do such a thing—that an honest druggist would give you what you ask for. You know that when a druggist insists on giving you something else, there must be a reason for it. We know what that reason is—he makes a bigger profit on the other thing. Any druggist in America will supply the "Pellets" if you insist on it.

MADE QUICK TIME

Servia Brought Ancients Home In Good Health.

A HEARTY GREETING EXTENDED ON RETURN

In Behalf of the City and State.

Boston, Aug. 1.—The steamer Servia, in which the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company made its trip to and from Europe, made the run in six days and 17 hours, the quickest passage ever made between this port and Liverpool. It was noticeable that the customs officials were not so rigid in their examinations as is usually their habit with returning tourists, and the ceremonies of the immigrant inspectors were, of course, only formal. But little of interest occurred on the wharf beyond these formalities, and at 10 o'clock the bugle sounded the assembly, and the cry of "Fall in" was heard, and the column proceeded to the South ferry, and embarked. When the ferryboat reached the ferry slip on the Boston side, a large crowd of people was in waiting. Here also was the military escort, which had volunteered to receive the home-comers and pilot them through the streets. This escort was composed of the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company who had been unable to accompany their comrades across the sea, and also included the Lancers, the Charlestown City Guards, company H, Fifth infantry, the Boston Fusilier veterans, and the Boston Post 200, G. A. R.

The line of march was at once taken up to the state house. Here they were awaited by Lieutenant Governor Wolcott. The Ancients and their escorts were drawn up in line, and Colonel Walker advanced to the front and saluted. Governor Wolcott spoke a few word of formal welcome to the officers and members of the corps. "It was but a short month ago," said the lieutenant governor, "that I stood here and had the honor of assuring you, as you departed on your voyage, that all the good wishes and the godspeed of the commonwealth were yours, and that its hearty welcome would be yours on your return. That welcome it is now my pleasure to extend. You have been welcomed by field marshals and princes, and if you are welcomed home only by plain lieutenant governors and mayors, it surely is the fault only of the commonwealth which has created them. As I prophesied that you would do, you have carried your flags with dignity and honor. The commonwealth thanks you for your conduct abroad, and feels that the honors which have been shown to you have not been shown to you alone, but as well to the commonwealth and to the nation. You have been the personal recipients, but the state and the nation regard the welcome and the courtesies as having been extended to it and to them. The commonwealth extends to you and to all in your command a most cordial welcome."

Colonel Walker replied to the greeting of the lieutenant governor in a few words. "I thank your honor," he said, "for this most cordial welcome in my own behalf, and in that of my command, for I know that it is the welcome of the whole people. When we took these colors from your hand, I made the promise that we would so bear ourselves abroad that we would merit the welcome, on our return: 'Well done, good and faithful servants.' This promise we have kept."

After the conclusion of the formalities, Colonel Walker and the officers of the returning corps, with the visiting officers of the ship, were personally greeted by the lieutenant governor, and assured of his cordial congratulations. The line was then reformed, and the march was resumed to Faneuil hall.

Faneuil hall was decked out in gala attire, to signalize the reception given there by the city of Boston to the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company. On the main and side platforms were tables, set with refreshments, but the floor of the hall was left open. The reception was held at the close of the street parade, and soon after 12 o'clock the company arrived.

As soon as the company began entering the hall the colors were carried forward and placed in position in front of the platform, where the long red, white and blue streamers on the staff, bearing the national ensign could be seen, inscribed with the names of the recent "victories" of the Ancients—"Liverpool, London, Finsbury, Windsor Castle, Aldershot, Marlboro House." As soon as the last members had entered the hall, Captain Jones of the "home guard" of the company called the assemblage to order. Mayor Quincy then said: "The city of Boston felt that the return of the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company from Europe should be signalized by a public reception. This is not the time for long speech-making, however. You are doubtless all anxious to return to your homes, after your long absence, as soon as possible. I will therefore merely bid you a hearty welcome home." Then turning to Colonel Walker, the mayor expressed again his pleasure at seeing him and his command safely back.

In response, Colonel Walker expressed the thanks of himself and the company for the hearty reception accorded them. If Boston was proud of them, they were proud of Boston. He then spoke of the warmth and cordiality of the greeting which was extended to them abroad, and declared that he felt sure the welcome was not from policy, but that all, from the queen to her humblest subject, were inspired by feelings of the truest cordiality and friendship.

Mayor Quincy replied that he thought he should express the appreciation, not alone of Boston, but of the state and the whole country, at the kindly spirit in which the company was received abroad. He desired to say that the good will shown was, he believed, extended as much toward the American people as toward the command itself, and he wished to add that the nation which the command had brilliantly represented extended its thanks for the kindly spirit exhibited by the motherland.

During the serving of the collation which followed, the band played many airs which evidently evoked pleasurable memories among the home-comers, and there was much cheering and singing and greeting of old friends and general good fellowship.

CABINET TOTTERING.

Cuban Policy the Rock Upon Which Spaniards May Split.

Madrid, Aug. 1.—A cabinet crisis is believed to be imminent here. Senor Canovas Del Castillo came into power in Spain on Feb. 7, 1895. A number of officers had broken into and pillaged the offices of various newspapers which had made insinuations against the conduct of officers engaged in suppressing the Cuban revolt, and the war minister seemed to support the officers, whereas the premier, Senor Sagasta, ordered the journalists to be protected. This led to the retirement of the ministry. Marshal Campos was temporarily made captain general of Madrid, and the greatest excitement prevailed.

SENOR CASTILLO.

Finally, Senor Canovas Del Castillo formed a ministry, although he lacked the support of a section of the Conservative party. The government was defeated on a vote of censure on June 3, 1895, but did not resign. They have met occasional reverses, growing out of the Cuban policy, but the general elections, in April, returned an overwhelming majority to the cortes in favor of the government. Gross election frauds were charged by the opposition to have been committed in that election.

Factory Their Home.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 1.—Although trouble was expected yesterday at Plant's shoe factory, the day closed without anything of a startling nature happening. Last night about 3000 persons gathered outside the factory, expecting to see non-union men come out, but none appeared. Mr. Plant has provided lodgings within the factory, and the men will now remain inside, food being brought in to them.

Female Racing Not Countenanced.

Toronto, Aug. 1.—In the racing board bulletin issued yesterday, the Canadian board condemns female racing. It says: "Several female bicycle track races have taken place in Canada, notwithstanding every effort on the part of the board to suppress such exhibitions. Promoters are warned that the board will hereafter blacklist any track upon which female bicycle riders are allowed to race before the public."

Must Go to Boston.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The district attorney at Boston having insisted that the presence of the barkentine Herbert Fuller is indispensable for the purpose of carrying on the trial against the persons accused of having committed murder on board that vessel, the department of justice has requested the department of state to instruct the United States consul at Halifax to send the vessel to Boston.

Shutdown For Eighteen Months.

Louisville, Aug. 1.—The movement to secure a suspension of the distilleries of the state for 18 months has at last been successful. All preliminaries were furnished at a meeting of the committee held yesterday. The agreement becomes effective at once. The only distilleries who refuse to agree to a suspension are the Mutual, at Uniontown, and the Letonia, at Millidale.

Li May Visit Quaker City.

Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—It is learned at the office of the International Navigation company that Li Hung Chang has engaged apartments for himself and suite on board the steamer St. Louis, which sails from Southampton on Aug. 22. It is probable that Li will visit Cramps' shipyards in this city, as he is greatly interested in shipbuilding.

Something Wrong With Corned Beef.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 1.—Mrs. W. D. Blanchard, Officer Wade, five waitresses, two hostlers and three cooks were taken sick, as a result of eating corned beef, at the Relay House at Nahant. All have recovered except Mrs. Blanchard, whose condition at present is considered very serious. An investigation will be made.

Holding Works Strike on Again.

Cleveland, Aug. 1.—The strike at the works of the Brown Hoisting and Conveying Machine company will be renewed today, by order of the strikers' executive committee. The men find that the settlement effected by the state board of arbitration does not include recognition of authority by labor union committees nor the discharge of all non-union men, and on these points they will continue the battle. They are in an angry mood, and trouble is almost certain to come, and the police will now use sterner methods than those recently employed.

Possibility of the Future.

London, Aug. 1.—The Graphic commends President Cleveland's renewed warning that the neutrality laws must be observed, and says: An American annexation of Cuba being a possible solution, it is the more imperative that the possible heir to an involuntary legacy from Spain should exhibit no indecent haste in precipitating a settlement of the question.

HEARING BEGUN

Preliminary Examination of Nash Murderers.

FIRST WITNESS SAYS BRAM WAS DRUNK

And Suggested Throwing the Bodies Overboard.

Boston, July 31.—The preliminary examination of Thomas Bram and Charles Brown, charged with the murder of Capt. Nash, his wife and Mate Bambury, began this morning before U. S. Commissioner Fiske.

Ex-U. S. Attorney Frank B. Allen has been retained by Brown and District Attorney Hoar and his assistant, Attorney Casey, are conducting the case for the government.

Frank Lahece who was on watch the night of the murder was the first witness. He testified that on that night he was ordered by the mate who was in charge to relieve Bram at the wheel at two o'clock the latter going forward, while the mate went to his cabin. Bram went below and returned in great haste and later the steward came on deck saying that the mate and his wife were murdered and asking witness if he had heard any noise.

Bram who was drunk at the time said to witness: "The second mate tried to rape the captain's wife and the captain tried to kill him. Not being a strong man the mate killed him and the wife and then took his life. Let's throw the bodies overboard."

Bram then chimed in saying: "Yes, let's throw the bodies overboard."

WILL VICTORIA RETIRE

AND LEAVE THE THRONE TO PRINCE OF WALES?

Her Health Is Poor and She Has Left London for the Last Time—Princess of Wales Will Occupy Her Town Houses.

London, July 31.—The rumor which has been heard at intervals to the effect that the queen is to retire and leave the throne to her son, the Prince of Wales, is again current and without contradiction. It is added that court circles are greatly troubled at the queen's state of health and it is known that she will retire to one of her country seats, giving the Princess of Wales the use of her town residence.

The queen feels the weight of her years and upon the occasion of her last appearance in London where the Princess Maud was married, she remarked: "This is my last visit to London." At that time she was deeply affected by the cheers of the crowds along the route.

HOT FROM THE WIRE.

Contractor Evelin, who has had trouble with Italian strikers at the sewer in process of construction at Melrose, has been obliged to give up his contract.

Wong Chee, the most popular Chinaman in Southern California has been murdered by the High Binders. Before dying he identified his murderer.

President Cleveland, Sec. Thurber, Joseph Jefferson, C. B. Jefferson and William H. Crane went bass fishing in Wakeby lake at Marshpee today and will not return until tomorrow.

The Cunarder "Servia" with the Ancients on board arrived in Boston at 5.30 this morning all in good health and spirits.

Michael Lehmaier who was shot by Charles Johnson, his brother-in-law, in New York a few days ago is dying. Lehmaier is addicted to the use of morphine and was under its influence when he precipitated the trouble.

Fifty victims of the intense heat have been taken to the hospital and there are 20 deaths. There have been 70 cases of prostration in the four days, all in St. Louis.

George Hfeltzer, a Cincinnati saloon keeper, was murdered by robbers at his place of business last night. He shot one of his assailants in the eye. He was shot four times. One of the assassins was arrested.

THE DEAD NUMBERED

In the Atlantic City Catastrophe Which Occurred Last Night.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 31—The num, her killed in last night's accident is 42 injured 43.

A Dangerous Crossing.

Philadelphia, July 31—The crossing at which last night's accident occurred has always been regarded with misgivings by those who owned the two rival roads. It is situated 2 1-4 miles from the Atlantic City terminal and near it is a block tower in which an operator determines which of the trains wishing to cross has the right of way. There is much doubt as to which of the two ill fated trains last night had the right of way. It is said that trains on the railroad frequently race along the long meadow stretch just before reaching the crossing but it is not positive that these two were racing.

The Mathews' Outing.

The annual outing of the Mathew Temperance Institute will be held at Shawsheen tomorrow.

There will undoubtedly be a large attendance and a fine program of sports has been arranged including a one-half mile run between Michael Gorman and little "Johnny" Cushing. There will be lots of fun and those who wish to dance will have ample opportunity.

Teams Collide.

A two-seated carriage, driven by Joseph Losage of 1 Adams street, containing a lady and gentleman, beside the driver, was run into by a team containing three young men at Tower's corner, last evening, and was badly damaged. The young men drove off without leaving their names. Mr. Lesage, it is said, was on the wrong side of the street.

The Democratic State Central Committee.

Mr. Editor:

This aggregation of gentlemen, it seems, to have become much more ornamental than useful. They seem to forget they were elected as servants and not masters of the state democracy.

The facts briefly stated are simply these: The democratic national committee issued a call for a national convention to meet at Chicago, July 7th, just the same as they always have done, calling on the democrats of the country to send delegates to this convention as they always have, which they did. Both gold and silver democrats did their best in the primaries to elect men of their views. The result was, that more than two-thirds of these delegates were elected as silver men, and as such nominated the candidates and framed the platform, the same as the gold men would have done, had they been elected two-thirds of the convention. There is no claim that everything was not fair and above board. Why then should the state committee refuse to endorse both platform and candidates? Do they think they are the masters and not the servants of the party? The party will show them what they think of such treachery. They will relegate these fellows to the rear where they belong. Many of these men are nothing more than what the democratic party has made them, and the way they repay the party for the honors conferred upon them is to do their best to defeat it, simply and solely because they can't rule it. They are probably afraid that the party will get larger than they can handle. Their race is nearly over. The party at their next convention will do ample justice to these traitors and consign them to the oblivion they so richly deserve. In the meantime let every democrat stand up and be counted for Bryan and Sewall and the straight democratic ticket. Let every democrat attend the convention caucuses and vote for delegates who will vote for George Fred Williams for governor and an honest, straightforward state central committee which will recognize that the majority must rule even if it doesn't please them. DEMOCRAT ALWAYS.

FOR EVADING FARE.

Two Men Arrested at Lawrence After Riding From Lowell.

Patrolman Herrick arrested I. W. Marden and Byron Hill in Lawrence about 8.30 last evening for evading, as is alleged, the payment of car fares.

The story of the affair is as follows:

When the Lowell electric, due at 8.30 at the transfer station, left Glen Forest it was heavily loaded with passengers and Conductor Fernald started out early to make his collection of fares.

All went well until he reached the seat occupied by Marden and Hill.

He politely asked them for their fares and they, it is charged, refused to pay.

The patrol wagon was sent for on reaching Lawrence and both men lodged in the police station.

BASE BALL

Games today:

Unions vs. Florence, at Cricket Grounds.

Emeralds vs. Y. M. C. I. at Mountain Rock.

Today's game between the Unions and Florence team at the Cricket grounds will puzzle more than the average bettor. Heretofore there has always been a number to bet at a moments notice on a team but in this case the man who backs his judgment hesitates upon placing his money. The Florence team is keeping them all guessing and today's game will clinch matters.

Catcher Hugh Farley has left the Y. M. C. I. team owing, he claims, to the fact that the management will not pay sufficient salary. Hugh has been the main stay of the team since the beginning of the season.

It is amusing to hear those who have recently returned from the silver states to the east talk about the hold which the silver doctrine has upon the western people. Silver is discussed everywhere, at the club, in the workshop, on the street even in the drawing room and the fair sex is wonderfully well posted on the subject. Said a man just returned from a silver state, the other day, in speaking of the western people: "Democracy is their politics while free silver is a religion with them."

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Hear People From Wigginville and Tewksbury.

The county commissioners considered yesterday morning the laying out and defining of Lawrence street from the line between Lowell and Tewksbury to the further boundary of Tewksbury.

The selectmen had a plan there and it was thoroughly discussed. It makes the street of a uniform width of 45 feet and takes land from abutters on both sides.

The chief reason for the relocation of the lines of the road is that public convenience and necessity require it, because the electric road has laid its tracks there, and the road in its present condition is not fit.

Larkin T. Trull conducted the case for the petitioners.

W. A. Hogan, Esq., represented Mr. and Mrs. Davis of Wigginville who are remonstrants, and J. J. Harvey, Esq., represented James Miller and Andrew Adams.

SADDEST SCENES

Forty-Seven Dead Bodies Recovered From Wreck.

THE JURY VISITS THE FATAL SPOT.

Evidence That Danger Signal Was Overlooked.

Atlantic City, Aug. 1.—Forty-seven dead and 43 injured. Those are the figures on the appalling disaster on the Meadows, Thursday evening. Of these, 40 have been identified. Three of the unidentified were men and three women. The odd one consists of an arm, to which no body has been found. Of the injured, it is more than probable that four or five will die.

The investigation into the cause of the collision, and the fixing of the responsibility, began yesterday. Coroner McLaughlin impaneled a jury, consisting of six of Atlantic City's most influential citizens. After formal organization in the coroner's office, the jury visited the old excursion house, which has been utilized as a morgue. The dead had all been taken there and placed in iceboxes. The jurymen viewed the bodies, and later visited the scene of the wreck.

The relief gangs had done effective work. Both tracks were cleared, and articles of clothing which belonged to the victims had been taken to police headquarters. Beside the ditch, there still lay a great mass of broken timber. A little beyond, lay what remained of the Reading engine. The battered head lay toward the direction whence it came, the wheels in the air. The force of the collision was so great that the engine was not only turned upside down, but also completely around. There is a very general impression that under the mass of debris at least six more bodies lie.

The jury made an exhaustive examination of the ground, and devoted considerable time to the inspection of the signals, which still remain as they were at the moment of the accident, that facing the Reading being the red, or danger signal, and that toward the West Jersey meaning "Come ahead."

As soon as a train strikes a point in the tracks a few feet beyond the signal tower, stationed at the junction of the two roads, an automatic arrangement rings a bell in the tower house, and the train which first rings this bell is given the right of way. Thursday night, this privilege belonged to the West Jersey train. But in spite of this, and the fact that the danger signal was against the Reading, that train continued on at full speed, and the collision followed.

George F. Hauser, who had charge of the lever, and who is now under arrest, has made several statements to the police. He told them he saw both trains coming when both were sufficiently far away to admit of the full display of signals, but as the West Jersey was the nearest, he gave the Reading the red light, and signaled the other train to come ahead. The Reading, however, never slackened speed, but came on. The man in the cab either thought he could easily clear the point in time, or the brakes failed to work, and they could not stop in time. The only living man who positively knows this is Fireman O'Houlihan, who saved his life by leaping from the cab, and he has been missing ever since the accident. The authorities may know where to lay hands on him when the time arrives, but the most rigorous search by outsiders has failed to reveal his whereabouts.

Every person here connected, even in the remotest way with either of the railroad companies, has steadfastly refrained from making any statement or expressing any opinion in the matter.

The center of interest yesterday was the improvised morgue, and a strange spectacle for this city of proverbial gaiety, was the continual procession of undertakers' wagons bowling along Atlantic aveune, the principal thoroughfare. Inside the morgue, tragic scenes were being enacted throughout the day. One incident there will suffice to picture the general happenings of the dreadful task of identification.

A young man named Morris Peters, with his father, Joseph, were on the excursion train from Bridgeton. Both were killed. Yesterday the mother and daughter came down to look for their loved ones. When they found them, the scene was so pitiful, that every heart in the gloomy place throbbed with grief and pain. The body of the youth was reached first. Both women stared at the lifeless form for a moment silently, then the pent-up rivers of the eye found vent, and they sank down, sobbing wildly. The attendants tenderly asked them to come to the body of the father, but with all the little strength left to them, the women refused. It was necessary to the work of identification, however, and the shuddering women were led to the other corpse. This was the last straw. The women collapsed entirely, and it was necessary to have them borne from the place and taken away in a carriage.

Such scenes as this occurred at the morgue all day, and scenes of a like character were occurring at the same time a the sanitarium, where the injured lie, some in their death struggles.

A pathetic fact which has come to light is that the "run" which ended Engineer Farr's life was to have ended his career as a railroader, and establish him as a storekeeper. For five years he and his wife had scraped and stinted their income to save enough to set them up in business. The wife wanted him to leave railroading, because of its perils. They had taken a little store, and stocked it with notions, patent medicines, cigars and like commodities. Yesterday they were to open it. The man who accompanied Farr on the last run, and who was also killed, was to have succeeded him on the engine, and was taking a preliminary lesson. The statement that Mrs. Farr dropped dead on learning of her husband's fate, proved to be untrue. She merely fainted, but is lying very sick in the little home behind the store, which was to have begun for them a new and happier life.

About 3 o'clock yesterday morning the rescue workers found a babe lying in the grass, a few feet from the point of the accident. It was sleeping peacefully, and was uninjured. The police officially took charge of the child.

A BRIGHTER OUTLOOK.

After Regular Season of Torpidity Business Is Likely to Improve.

New York, Aug. 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Business conditions have clearly improved, though business has not. It is the torpid season, and better prospects have little effect as yet. The prospect for large crops of cotton and corn is still excellent, and neither movements of wheat nor markets give countenance to low estimates. Two important labor contests have been settled—one being bar iron mills and puddlers, and one in the Brown hoisting works of Cleveland. But the strike of garment workers in New York has extended, although appearing near an end.

Changes in the foreign trade are already in the helpful direction, domestic exports from New York having been for four weeks 17 per cent larger, while imports hence have been 20 per cent smaller than last year, and last week 26 per cent smaller. Wheat is already going out with more freedom than is usual for the season.

Several weeks of extremely slack demand for cotton goods has brought a further reduction in print cloths to 2.44 cents, instead of the advance expected in consequence of the stoppage of 4,000,000 spindles, but prints are selling more freely, while brown and bleached goods are dull, except for export kinds. The woolen mills do not gain, light weights opening 5 to 7½ per cent lower in price than last year, and sales of wool now reported are less than a quarter of a full week's consumption.

The boot and shoe industry has secured slight further advances from the lowest point in brogans and calf boots and shoes, but now orders are scant, the more because the permanence of advance is questioned. Leather is stubbornly held, without change in prices, and in some grades is really scarce, although manufacturers are buying only for actual needs, but hides have turned downward sharply at Chicago, declining 5 per cent for the week, with heavy accumulations.

Failures for the week have been 281 in the United States, against 261 last year, and 40 in Canada, against 28 last year.

Not Quite Ended.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The legal controversy over the $200,000 estate of the late Judge Advocate General Joseph Holt has been compromised, so as to give the heirs-at-law half of the estate, in any event. This has been secured by the withdrawal of Miss Elizabeth Haynes of Kentucky, a cousin by marriage of the testator, and an equal beneficiary under the alleged will of Feb. 7, 1873, with Miss Josephine Holt. Miss Throckmorton will continue the fight, and on appeal bond, which has just been filed, will carry the case to the court of appeals, with prospect of decision in November or December.

Highwaymen In Empire State.

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 1.—An attempt was made yesterday, by highwaymen, to hold up the stage that carries the mail between Rossie and Gouveneur. Two men were walking slowly in the road, and one sprang from among bushes and attempted to stop the team. The driver plied his whip over the man's head, hitting him an awful blow between the eyes with the butt end of the whip, and felling him to the ground. He was picked up by his companions and taken away. The driver then proceeded to Gouveneur.

Looking Into Church Troubles.

Buffalo, Aug. 1.—Very Rev. Father Francis Wawryzniak, a member of the German reichstag, chamberlain to the papal throne, with Father Aust of Scranton, Pa., has arrived in Buffalo. The papal delegate represents the propaganda of the faith at Rome, and will inquire into the causes and effects of the trouble which arose in the Polish Catholic church here during the last year or so, and will make a report to the authorities at the holy see. The delegate refused to talk for publication.

Bicyclist Killed.

New Haven, Aug. 1.—Otto Dighatsky, aged 28 years, was killed by a trolley car, near Kimberly avenue bridge, last night. He was riding on a bicycle, close to the track, and in turning out to avoid an approaching car, his wheel slipped, throwing him directly in front of the car, which crushed him to death.

IS THIS THE RIGHT PLAN

HOW NEW REPRESENTATIVE LINES WILL BE LAID OUT.

Prominent Republican Reveals What He Says Is the Chosen Plan—Democrats Will Have Three Representatives—County Commissioners Will Meet Tuesday to Discuss the Matter—What Rep. O'Connor Says.

Next Tuesday the county commissioners will meet in Cambridge to define the lines of the new representative districts.

Undoubtedly the commissioners will go through the formality of holding a hearing on the matter but it is a matter of general comment in this city that this will amount to nothing and that the plans of the new districts are already in the hands of the commissioners.

A prominent republican said yesterday that he had it on very good authority that the plan is as follows: Wards two, four, five and six will form one district with three representatives. This will be the democratic district.

Then Wards three, seven, eight and nine will be combined into a republican district with three more representatives. Ward one which contains the largest number of legal voters will be a district by itself.

This arrangement would necessitate conventions for the nomination of representative candidates but of course there would be the usual caucus contests for the selection of delegates favorable to particular candidates.

When Rep. O'Connor was informed of this plan he said: "I don't think that will carry because the wards named are not contiguous."

FOURTH OF JULY TROUBLE.

Two South Common Venders Air Troubles in Court.

In the police court yesterday afternoon the case of George Whitney vs. Frederick Taylor was heard by Judge Frye.

It is a Fourth of July squabble, and it seems that Supt. Oliver is responsible for it.

He let a lot on the South Common numbered 114 to Taylor, who had a lemonade stand, and lot 116 to Whitney, who ran a striking machine.

Between lots 115 and 116 another lot was staked off, but not numbered, and between this latter lot and 114, stakes were also driven.

Supt. Oliver told both tenants that the lot belonged to them.

Taylor got there first and secured possession of the vacant lot, and when Whitney came, he thought Taylor was encroaching on his ground. Supt. Oliver thought so too, and a wrangle ensued till Lieutenant Kew was called in.

In the meantime Whitney was not doing business. Now he claims that Taylor's action caused him a loss in his business, and he wants $300 damages.

Judge Frye postponed the case.

HELD FOR MURDER.

Bram and Brown Are Held for Triple Murder.

Boston, Aug. 1.—At the conclusion of the hearing in the Fuller case yesterday, probable cause was found by United States Commissioner Fiske, in the cases of Thomas Bram and Charles Brown, and they were held for the United States grand jury on the charge of having murdered Captain Nash, his wife Laura, and Second Mate Bamberg, on the barkentine Herbert Fuller, on the night of July 13. The government placed on the witness stand only two witnesses, Monks and Lobece. The defense offered no testimony. Bram acted in a calm, matter-of-fact manner, which caused considerable comment among the spectators. There were no sensations at the hearing, and the evidence adduced did not point out a motive.

A Veritable Death-Dealer.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The ordnance bureau of the navy department has tested the navy automatic gun. It fired 400 shots in 61 seconds, without a break. In the heating test, 1000 shots were fired continuously. The barrel became so hot that it would char wood, but the effectiveness of the gun's discharge was not affected. The 1400 shots from one barrel of the automatic gun did not heat it to such an extent as did 2000 shots from 10 barrels of the Gatling gun.

COUNCILMAN NAY

Gets Through His Order for an Investigation.

SAYS MAYOR COURTNEY AND MESSENGER CAHILL

Were Imposed Upon in His Opinion.

Now prepare for another investigation.

The common council last night passed the order for investigation number two, and all that remains now is for the aldermen to place their official sanction to the order.

A copy of the order was posted on the door of the council chamber, and unlike the one presented at the last meeting, it was a joint order. It read as follows:

"Ordered, if the board of aldermen concur, that a joint special committee of two members of the board of aldermen to be appointed by the mayor and three members of the common council to be appointed by the president of the council, be appointed to investigate and report upon the expense of repairing the boilers of the city hall in the months of January and February, 1896.

Said committee shall have full power to conduct such hearing, so far as the city council possesses authority to grant such power, to send for persons and papers and send for expert testimony if deemed advisable.

Councilman Nay, who introduced the order said that when the bills came before the committee on accounts he noticed the large amounts. He did not wish to cast reflection on the H. R. Barker Co. or J. H. Walker. But, he said, Mr. Walker charged for filling a hole with 4000 bricks. I went down in the boiler room and investigated and I could not see where 4000 bricks were used. "I believe that the mayor and Mr. Cahill were imposed upon and this committee should investigate thoroughly. They should see what these men were paid for overtime or Sunday work. Corporations allow their men time and a quarter for overtime and the Lowell Machine shop gives time and a half."

Councilman Miskella wanted to know if the bill had been approved. Being informed that it was, he remarked that it is rather late to come and ask for an investigation, after the bill had been paid several months ago and nothing was said about it at that time.

The order was unanimously adopted and Councilmen Nay, Pendergast and Jacobs were named on the committee.

A communication from W. N. Goodell referred to the dangerous condition of Foster street. It was referred to the committee on streets. A petition from Robert H. Mulno and Benjamin Schofield asking for damages sustained in an injury during a change in the grade of Lawrence street was referred.

After half a dozen minor petitions were referred to the appropriate committees, the following resolutions took their final passage: That Kidder street be laid out and accepted: that Victoria street be laid out and accepted; that a sidewalk be laid on the easterly side of Coburn street from West Sixth to L sreet; that a sidewalk be laid on the westerly side of Coburn street from Lakeview avenue to West Sixth; that a sidewalk in front of N. J. Wier's property in Beach street be accepted.

The resolution that $4,000 be transferred from the appropriation for new schools for a new school house in Lexington avenue was given its final passage. Also one for the transfer of $25,000 from the same appropriation for the new Varnum school addition

They See No Cause or Justification for Bolting—The Silver Cause is the People's Cause—Strong Words From Mr. W. J. Coughlin, Hon. Fisher H. Pearton, Hon. Peter J. Brady, Postmaster Pearson, Marcellus H. Fletcher and Many Other Well Known Democrats.

In order to test the feeling of the most prominent democrats of the city, The Sun yesterday interviewed a number of gentlemen whose statements are here subjoined. The idea that there is any popular opposition in the ranks of the democratic party to the Chicago ticket and platform so far as we can learn is utterly groundless. The rank and file of the democracy are all right, they are determined to vote the ticket as usual and never had they a more important issue to pass upon at the polls. The currency question is now squarely before the people for settlement and upon its right settlement depends the future well being of the country. That the gold standard is responsible for the greatest part of the distress, the depression in business, the strikes, and panics which have afflicted this country for many years, is proved beyond question by the most cumulative arguments while the arguments to the contrary are mainly assumptions, that cannot be sustained by any tangible proof.

In the appended interviews will be found the opinions of some of the best informed democrats of the city, men who have studied the currency question thoroughly, and who have concluded that the action of the Chicago convention is right, that it is calculated to restore prosperity and redeem the country from financial subjection to England and from the grasp of its own overgrown gold bugs and monopolists.

In Postmaster Pearson's interview there is a most remarkable statement, showing the great scarcity of gold, and showing, too, that although gold is the standard of values, the real circulating medium is silver. If this be the case, why not have silver placed where it belongs, on a level with gold as money at a ratio of 16 to 1.

We give the foremost place to the views of Mr. Wm. J. Coughlin, who to our own knowledge has been preaching free silver like the voice of one crying in the wilderness for years past.

He has just returned from the west, where he caught the sentiment of the people and knows just how they stand on the subject.

The general question submitted to those interviewed was as follows:

"Should democrats support the ticket of the national party nominated at Chicago, and why? Do you see any reason for bolting the ticket?"

William J. Coughlin.

Democrat should support the ticket because there is not an undemocratic plank in the party platform.

This year, for the first time in a generation, the common people, the business men, the real democracy built the party platform—the planks presented by the politician and the plutocrats were shaky, had wavey edges, were misfits and were rejected.

As I interpret democracy, the party's present declaration of principles is no new gospel, it is the old creed embossed so that even the blind may read. The people had almost lost sight of it in the near past because of the sophistry and chicanery of selfish place-seekers. Because—

The standard-bearers are democrats.

Bryan is young, it is said, well, is youth a crime? He is older than was the writer of the Declaration of Independence, than Napoleon when he ruled in France, than Burke and Pitt when their statesmanship compelled the world's attention, or the Saviour when he pronounced the sermon on the mount. Sewall typifies the mercantile life of the nation at its best.

Because of its truly American position on the financial question.

As to bi-metallic money, there are those who now say there is danger in this. Notwithstanding that it had been a plank in every republican and democratic platform for 20 years, inserted there only to deceive the people. Such was the money of our country from 1792 to 1873.

The first panic I remember was when silver was demonetized. The country has never recovered from it. One half our money metal for money purposes was destroyed. This great contraction of the currency abnormally enhanced the value of our measure of exchange, the gold dollar. Relief came only on the passage of the Bland-Allison coinage of silver act. Prices began to advance and more prosperous times set in. Another contraction later produced more hard times. Then the Sherman act voted for, I believe, by the late Governor Greenhalge, a season of great prosperity followed the passage of this act.

When the threat came to repeal it, the present or last panic set in. The Wall street dollar swapper could not corner both metals. They caused our gold to be exported and told us our silver dollar was only worth about 80 cents. Yet the day that the Sherman act was repealed the silver dollar was worth 1.02 cents in gold. The money traffickers promised us prosperity—that gold would flow into the country. Did it?

The winter after the repeal of the Sherman act 3,500,000 men and young persons were thrown out of employment. You will remember that soup houses were established in Boston; hundreds of banks and railroad systems went into receiver's hands. Never before was bankruptcy so numerous, and to cap it all we have bonded or mortgaged our country and our families for 30 years to foreign money mongers, all to sustain our gold basis. This the gold worshipers told us would restore prosperity—Is it restored?

The prices of all forms of property, except gold, at present are the lowest ever known in this country. Prices are still falling, we are on a gold basis.

Prosperity and a falling market are deadly enemies. Bi-metallism is said to be dishonest because it will advance prices. Protection also implies advancing prices so that if McKinleyism signified anything it means the creation of dishonest money, so called.

The money brokers tell us that there are millions of idle money in Europe awaiting investment here for us to pay interest on if we forswear allegiance to our party and principles. Democracy replies that we have millions of gold and silver in our western hills, that we can employ tens of thousands of now idle men in our mines and when we have a sufficiency for ourselves we will export the surplus to Europe and the effete east to earn interest for us.

I have followed this financial question for 23 years and every financial statement made by currency contractionists has been proven by time to be financial falsehood. Is the gold dollar an honest dollar? Ask the Nebraska farmer whom I met at his home week before last, who has to give 16 2-3 bushels of oats for one of those dollars, honest forsooth. This farmer represents 35 millions of our people engaged in agriculture. If these derive no profit from their toil, where are our eastern manufacturers to find a market for their product? Ask those western people, republican and democrat, many of them representing the best blood of New England, why they support the democratic ticket. They have studied this money question. They want national bimetalism. American money for Americans—honest money. I consider this the only real great question since that of slavery and if for no other reason every democrat should loyally support the ticket and be thankful for the privilege of participating in this new emancipation.

Hon. Fisher H. Pearson.

The democratic platform and candidates are highly satisfactory to me. The convention was a mass meeting of the people, and they chose, as the common people in their good sense always choose, the democratic party to fight their battle for reform.

The free and unlimited coinage of silver, the rallying cry of the party, in my opinion, will bring about a revival of business, will turn over to us the entire trade of all the silver using nations of the world, and therefore will force European nations to remonetize silver to protect their trade; will increase the wages of labor by increasing the demand for laborers and will deliver the treasury of the United States from the absolute control which the great banking houses now have.

The other planks in the platform are of minor importance compared to the silver plank, though all are in the interest of government by the people, and are the outcome of and in thorough accord with the most enlightened thought of the day upon social and economic questions.

If the voters of the country will study the issues presented by the two parties for themselves and refuse to allow themselves to be deluded or bull dozed by the gold standard press or by selfish moneyed interests, I believe before election most will be thoroughly convinced of the truth of the silver cause. Bryan and Sewall will be elected by the most tremendous majority ever known in American politics. I have nothing but contempt for those democrats, who having received every honor which the party could give, now refuse to submit to the will of the majority. It is a small loss when they leave us for good. It would have been better for the party had they left it before.

Hon. Peter J. Brady.

"Being a democrat who believes in majority rule, I can see no good reason for bolting the ticket. No convention could frame a platform to satisfy every member of the party, but in this case the body should accept the action of the majority. With rare exceptions, I believe the democratic party here and elsewhere will vote solidly for the ticket in November. I believe democrats should support their party nominees in city, state and nation. I don't think the adoption of the free silver plank excuses anybody for bolting the ticket. The western states at the last presidential election voted against their own convictions for the gold standard and we should not complain if some of us have to do the same occasionally. United action is necessary to success, and I believe that even here in Massachusetts Bryan and Sewall will poll the full party strength.

Postmaster Pearson.

I do not see why any democrat should bolt the ticket. I have looked the platform carefully over and I fail to see any point in which it is not calculated to benefit the people of this nation. Of course I do not approve of the action of the Chicago convention in refusing to endorse the present administration. The administration did the best it could under the unusual conditions to preserve the credit of the government and avert a money panic. I am fully convinced that free coinage would benefit the country at large, and those who believe otherwise should recollect that had a gold plank been adopted instead of the silver plank, the eastern democrats would have expected those in the west to accept it and support the ticket.

I wish to say that in regard to the Young Men's Democratic club, that that body has drawn up a series of resolutions so sweeping that very few will be willing to accept them entirely. Very few democrats will want to go on record as opposing Cleveland and being in favor of populism. In opposing the financial policy the club has run counter to the policy of the party on other important matters without any apparent necessity.

When asked if he received much gold in his business transactions in the post office Mr. Pearson answered that inside of two years in a business amounting to a million dollars, he had received but $15 in gold. This shows very forcibly that silver and paper money are now the principal mediums of exchange and that gold is very scarce and has been for some years past. I dare say that this absence of gold in regular business transactions is as noticeable in other lines of business as in the post office.

I believe that the defection in the democratic party will be entirely overcome before election day. The democrats certainly cannot vote for McKinley and Hobart.

James F. Owens, Esq.

"It is extremely important, this year above all others, that every individual in this country should exercise his very best judgment in the selection of candidates for whom he will vote irrespective of party lines.

There is no question but what the country is in a very serious condition, and that something must be done to prevent a continuance of the present state of affairs. For a remedy we are compelled at the present time to look to the candidates and the platforms of the two great parties. Personally I had made up my mind some time ago to vote for the candidates of the party that suggested the means of bringing about better and more prosperous conditions, and as usual I find after carefully looking over the platforms of the two parties, and satisfying myself as to the suitability of the candidates, that the only hope of future prosperity lies with the democratic party, and I will vote for its candidates, Bryan and Sewall.

At the present time it looks to me as though it would be impossible to prevent the nomination of Geo. Fred Williams for governor this fall. He undoubtedly at the present time has the backing of his party in nearly all the cities and towns in this commonwealth outside of Boston, and the dissatisfaction there appears to be very slight and immaterial when properly analyzed.

The only other candidate suggested is Mr. Gargan, a very bright, capable and able man, and yet bright, capable and able as he is and has been for the past twenty years the gentlemen who offer him their aid and comfort if he will consent to stand as a candidate have never thought of him before, although always available and almost certain to secure the nomination if he said but the word.

To the uninitiated it may appear strange but to the initiated very plain.

If my political judgment is worth anything, I would predict that Mr. Gargan will refuse to be a candidate and ostensible democrats who offer him their support will be obliged to secure some other stepping stone to reach and maintain the position they have lost and are so anxious to again obtain and hold.

John W. McEvoy, Esq.

Here is what John W. McEvoy writes: Editor Sun—"When such a young and progressive country as ours, teeming with natural resources and inhabited by a free, intelligent and industrious people, becomes the mere creature of a few New York bankers, it is a humiliating spectacle, if not a national disgrace.

"That the money question is the root of the present evil I think must be conceded, and while I am not quite persuaded that the free and unlimited coinage of silver is the remedy to be applied, I am satisfied that a change in our currency system is absolutely imperative.

The change must first receive deliberate discussion before adoption by congress and should it prove detrimental our people are patriotic enough to demand its repeal and suggest other remedies.

Confiding therefore in the wisdom of the majority, and in the need of immediate change in our financial legislation, I accept the Chicago platform and will contribute in every way to the success of its candidates.

"George Fred Williams is an able, fearless man, whose sympathies are really with the people. His reception at the ensuing state convention will be grandly enthusiastic and his nomination irresistable."

member of the executive committee of the democratic city committee from Ward nine said: "I am for Bryan and Sewall because they are democrats standing squarely on a platform whose every plank is democratic. It seems to me that the national democratic party, through the action of the Chicago convention, has got back to first principles, has become again what it was in the days when Jefferson fought the tories and the federalists and Jackson crushed the United States bank and destroyed nullification—the party of the common people—democracy in fact as well as in name.

"I am of course aware that some who have acted with the democratic party have announced their intention of opposing the democratic national ticket, of voting for McKinley or a gold democrat, if one is nominated. This they have a perfect right to do. One of the privileges of American citizenship is to vote as one pleases. But no man can serve two masters in politics. No man can oppose the democratic ticket and retain a title to the name of democrat. No man who is out to defeat the democratic ticket can remain a member of a democratic committee or be eligible for nomination to any office in a democratic convention."

B. D. O'Connell, Esq.

"There is one thing as sure as night follows day that this country must have a change from the present monetary standard or we are absolutely sure of bankruptcy and ruin. I am heart and soul in favor of the election of Bryan and Sewall and the endorsement of the Chicago platform and equally for the nomination and election of George Fred Williams as governor of this state. John B. Moran's letter against Williams is the most ridiculous thing I have read for a long time and is entirely unworthy of one claiming to be a lawyer. It contradicts itself and condemns the author in the same language that it was trying to condemn Mr. Williams who is head and shoulders above those fellows who are carping, many of them from motives of envy. The first time I saw Mr. Williams was in the Supreme Judicial court in Boston, when the ability he displayed and the attention and respect of the court compelled me to inquire who he was, and his firm does a large business owing as much to the confidence of the people in him, as to his ability, and a more courageous and honest man does not exist. There is a great deal of humbug about these gold bugs, and their stock phrases of, 'sound money,' 'depreciation' and 'repudiation' must be crammed down their throats. Most of them are humbugs as well as goldbugs.

Marcellus H. Fletcher.

Replying to your question I will say I shall vote the straight democratic ticket this fall as usual. How any democrat under the circumstances can do otherwise I fail to see. Our convention was regularly called and found upon assembling to be more than two-thirds in favor of the present candidates and platform. That is sufficient for me and ought to be for any other democrat. Either Bryan or McKinley will be the next president, and any democrat who would vote for McKinley is a democrat no longer. If the currency question was to decide my vote I should still vote for Bryan as McKinley is quite as much of a silver man (as his record shows) as he and not half as outspoken and honest. Then let every democrat stand up and be counted for Bryan and Sewall. Let us also work for George Fred Williams' election for governor.

Rep. O'Connor.

Rep. John J. O'Connor, the young executive from Ward five said: "Bryan and Sewall should be supported by every democrat and any executive who feels he cannot support the ticket should resign. I will do what I can to rally every voter in my ward to the support of the ticket. As an executive I would not care to say anything about the gubernatorial nomination because I think it would be premature. Of course personally I have my views and my friends know how I stand," said Joe with a knowing wink. The young representative's friends say he is a staunch Williams man.

Councilman Miskella.

I am a supporter of Bryan and Sewall. They were nominated by a majority of the delegates to the Chicago convention and are the choice of the national democracy. I also believe the nomination for governor this year belongs to George Fred Williams because of the service rendered the party in the past and also for the great fight he made last year.

Michael J. Garrey.

"I am with the party. Bryan and Sewall are the nominees and I will support them. I am a strong Williams man and I would like to see him nominated for governor."

John E. Maguire.

"Of course I am opt for Bryan and Sewall. Williams is a fighter and to my mind is the man to lead the forces in this state this fall. I would not like to see any split in the party."

Joseph F. Gormley.

I am a free silver man, and therefore am for Bryan and Sewall. Count me with Williams every time, too. My vote will go to delegates pledged to him.

Councilman Thornton.

Bryan and Sewall are my favorites and will get my vote. As for Williams, I do not see how any out and out democrat can vote against him. I believe he deserves the nomination, and he will get it.

Wm. C. Doherty.

The Ward Three executive is Wm. C. Doherty, the foundryman. "I am with the party as every democrat should be," said Will. "I will vote for Bryan and Sewall and urge my friends to do the same."

Mr. Doherty is also a Williams man, believing that the party should recognize past good service.

Thomas F. Garvey.

Ex-Councilman Thomas F. Garvey told The Sun reporter that his position is well understood. "I believe that the free silver cause is a righteous one, and so I allied myself with the forces. It follows that I will support Bryan and Sewall. You will also find me in the Williams ranks, because I believe the Dedham statesman will make an admirable gubernatorial candidate."

John J. Burns.

John J. Burns, vice president of the democratic city committee is a strong free silver advocate. He says: "I was an admirer of Bryan when he was in congress and I am still an enthusiastic supporter of him. I am a free silver man; also a believer in the Chicago platform, and, therefore, I will support Bryan and Sewall. Likewise I am a Williams follower and will do what I can to secure his nomination."

Councilman John P. O'Hare.

Councilman John P. O'Hare, one of Councilman Sullivan's associates remarked: "I am a free silver man now. The party has declared for it, and has nominated Bryan and Sewall, and they will have my hearty support. Williams is my man every trip, too."

Councilman Dunn.

Councilman Dunn is another man who believes in the declarations of the national convention. "What else could I do, but vote for Bryan and Sewall," he said. "I am also an admirer of George Fred Williams because I believe he is a man of the people."

Councilman Pendergast

Declares that "We cannot go against the people. They want free silver and Bryan and Sewall. Being one of them, of course I am interested in the success of the democratic ticket. Williams is a fighter, and an able man, just the kind to wage a hot campaign for governor."

Councilman Maguire.

"I am out for the ticket," was Councilman Maguire's reply to a reporter's question. "The majority of the convention declared for Bryan and Sewall, and the majority should rule. I think the gubernatorial nomination belongs to Mr. Williams."

Councilman Stephen O'Hare.

Councilman Stephen O'Hare does not talk much, but what he says he means. He is a democrat and is always ready to declare himself for the party. His words were: "I will vote for Bryan and Sewall because they stand on a platform which favors legislation for the whole people." The councilman also wants to see George Fred Williams nominated.

Wm. A. Hogan, Esq.

William A. Hogan, Esq., of the democratic executive committee spoke as follows: "I am not committed to free silver, but I am open to conviction on the question. Bryan and Sewall were nominated by a democratic convention and it is our duty as democrats to support them. So far as George Fred Williams is concerned he should be renominated. His work in the last campaign should be recognized by the state convention."

John Ryan.

John Ryan, the Ward eight executive, is a democrat at all times and under every condition. He is a free silver man and will support Bryan and Sewall, as every democrat should. "What else can a democrat do, but support the ticket?" asked John.

Thomas P. Boulger.

"I am a free silver man and will support the democratic ticket."

Councilman John E. Sullivan.

Councilman John E. Sullivan, who is one of Ward five's representatives in the lower board said: "I am always a democrat, and you can rest assured I am a Bryan and Sewall man. I would also like to see that Boston "machine" they talk about smashed and for that reason I would like to see George Fred Williams our gubernatorial nominee."

Andrew J. Barrett.

"I am a solid free silver man," said the ward seven executive. "Therefore, I am for Bryan and Sewall and will hustle for their election. Williams is my choice for governor."

John F. Tully.

Secretary Tully of the city committee, declared: "I am a free silver man because the party platform declares for it. I am also with the candidates, Bryan and Sewall. So far as the nomination for governor is concerned, I favor George Fred Williams.

Albert E. O'Heir.

A. E. O'Heir, of the firm of A. E. O'Heir & Co., when seen said: "I confess that if you had asked me the question a few weeks ago I would have pronounced for the single gold standard, but like thousands of others, especially in the east, after careful study of the question, I do not hesitate to declare for the double standard, gold and silver, such as this country had up to 1873. I think that the advocates of free coinage of silver have far more courage and belief that this cause is just and patriotic in appealing to the people and trusting them to decide if silver shall be remonetized than those who demonetized it in 1873 without their consent or knowledge.

Destroyed By Tidal Wave in China.

FOUR THOUSAND PEOPLE WERE SWEPT AWAY.

Cattle and Crop Were Totally Destroyed.

Shanghai, Aug. 1.—A dispatch containing news of great loss of life has been received from the province of Krang-Sux, where on last Sunday a tidal wave 5 miles long inundated the coast of Haghan in the northern portion of the province.

Several villages were destroyed and the loss of life is estimated at about 4000. Hundreds of cattle were drowned and the immense rice crop almost totally destroyed making a famine almost inevitable this winter.

The flooded district is opposite the island of Yu-Chan and its surface is very level. The province is one of the most fertile in China and exports more products than any other district in the empire.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within the County of Middlesex:

Respectfully libels and represents Martha E. Judkins of Lexington in said county, that she was lawfully married to Leonard C. Judkins of South Lewiston, in the state of Maine, at Lowell, in said county, the twenty-sixth day of January, A. D., 1879, and thereafterwards your libellant and the said Leonard C. Judkins lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at said Lowell and at Quincy that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said Leonard C. Judkins, being wholly regardless of the same, on said Lowell on or about the thirteenth day of July, A. D., 1892, did utterly desert your libellant and has continued such utter desertion up to the date hereof being more than three consecutive years prior thereto.

And your libellant further says and avers that being of sufficient ability the said Leonard C. Judkins, cruelly and wantonly refused and still refuses to provide suitable or proper support or maintenance for your libellant.

Also, that said Judkins has since his marriage to your libellant contracted gross and confirmed habits of intoxication.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Leonard C. Judkins and that the care and custody of their minor child whose name is Walter P. Judkins, born July 20th, 1879, may be awarded to your libellant.

Dated the twenty-seventh day of July, A. D., 1896. MARTHA E. JUDKINS.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

MIDDLESEX, ss.

Superior Court, July 29th, A. D., 1896.

Upon the libel aforesaid, it is ordered that the libellant notify the libellee to appear before our Justices of said Court, at Cambridge, in said county, on the first Monday of September next, by causing an attested copy of said libel and of the order thereon, to be published in the Lowell Daily Sun a newspaper published in Lowell, in the county of Middlesex, once a week, three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the said last mentioned day, and that an attested copy of said libel and order thereon be sent by registered letter to the residence of the libellee as set out in the libel, that he may then and there show cause, if any he have, why the prayer in said libel set forth should not be granted.

FOR PRESIDENT,

WILLIAM J. BRYAN of Nebraska

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,

ARTHUR SEWALL of Maine

Down with the gold bug dictators.

Hoke Smith has come out for free silver boldly and conscientiously. He is a man of principle.

The democrats of this state are getting ready to down the gold bug state committee at the state convention.

Hanna is now entrenched in the centre of the gold power and millions of dollars will be used to defeat the will of the people and elect McKinley and Hobart.

The clergymen of some eastern churches have taken to talking sound money. Of late it seems that certain clergymen can talk anything but sound theology and in finance their advice will be as vague as in morals.

Those who assail democrats as anarchists, socialists and so on because of seeking the restoration of constitutional money, are simply incorrigible. The constitution has nothing of anarchy but it provided for free silver just what the people want to relieve them from, distress.

The seductive cry is raised by the democratic manager that their free silver ideas would ruin the capitalists, and therefore would benefit the poor people.—Mail.

There is no such cry raised anywhere in this country. Free silver is not advocated that it may injure anybody but that it may secure fair play for everybody and prevent gold bugs, bankers and foreign shylocks from robbing the people.

Francis X. Fitzpatrick, the delegate to the Chicago convention whose credentials were used by the late Governor Russell, is out in a long and scurrilous article trying to show that George Fred Williams was responsible for challenging Mr. Russell's vote in the convention. Jerry O'Sullivan claims to be responsible for that challenge without any suggestion from Mr. Williams, and was fully justified under every rule of parliamentary law.

ANOTHER INVESTIGATION.

It appears that there is to be another investigation, not on the horse deal, but on the job of repairs on city hall. It appears that H. R. Barker & Co., are suspected of overcharging for the work. This is one of the most respectable firms in the city of Lowell, and if it cannot be trusted, we should like to know what firm in the city or elsewhere can be trusted. We surmise that the bill of the H. R. Barker firm will be found to be all right, and that the suspicions of those who call for the investigation will be found wholly groundless.

THE GOLD BUGS.

The gold bug bolters are out in a manifesto against the ticket with Nathan Matthews as the leader. Mr. Matthews makes a strong appeal to the democracy of this state in behalf of what he calls sound money, but what is in reality most unsound and dishonest. Mr. Gargan has declined to run as candidate for governor. We always believed Mr. Gargan to be a high-minded, whole-souled gentleman, far above the groveling, greedy, ungenerous, cowardly sentiment by which Nathan Matthews and his henchmen are influenced in this contest. Why does Mr. Matthews not run for governor? There is no honest democrat in the state who would not be heartily glad to see him accept the nomination in order to get the opportunity to vote against him. If the gold democrats put up a candidate, they will only demonstrate in what supreme contempt they are held by the rank and file of the democracy of this state. By all means let Mr. Matthews run as a candidate for governor that he may receive the castigation he so fully deserves at the hands of the democracy of Massachusetts.

THE SILVER MINE OWNERS.

Now, Mr. Editor, I want to ask how the silver owners are to be enriched by the free coinage of silver? Even though the silver owners should be enriched thereby, does that fact count as an argument against the restitution of the rights of silver if its free coinage would result in a general benefit to a majority of the people? The Picayune advocates a small duty on imported sugar, but to be consistent it ought to oppose any such duty on the ground that it would result in a benefit to the sugar planters. Can The Picayune think of any legislative act or government policy, however wisely devised for the general good of the whole people, that does not greatly favor some while it does not favor others? As a matter of fact, however, according to The Picayune's own statement (whether it be taken "a-comin or a-gwine"), there is no ground for this bugaboo story about the great benefits the silver owners are to derive from free silver coinage.

If the "50 cent dollar" theory of The Picayune be true, the miners can reap no profit from their silver bullion more than they are now getting. If the dollars they will have coined are to be worth only 50 cents, how in the name of Julius Cæsar can they derive any profit from a transaction wherein they must lose at least 8 cents on each dollar they have coined? The silver bullion in a silver dollar is today worth more than 50 cents, and if The Picayune correctly states the case there would be an absolute loss instead of an enormous gain to the owners of silver bullion in free coinage. But The Picayune did not mean that, for that is too self stultifying a position even for The Picayune to take on the financial question. I believe that it is a principle of law that where a doubt exists as to the true meaning of any clause it must be construed in harmony with some other existing clause on the same subject. Now, by the application of this test will we endeavor to arrive at what The Picayune did mean when it spoke of the enormous profit that free silver coinage would bring to the owners of silver bullion. Here is what The Picayune stated in a very positive sort of way on March 2, 1895:

"Such, in brief, are the goldbugs, but it will be worth while to inquire who are the silver bugs. First and foremost are the silver miners, who by the adoption of free silver coinage will at once have the value of their product raised from 70 cents an ounce to 129 cents an ounce."

Now, 129 cents an ounce is the coinage value of silver, and this statement therefore is an unequivocal declaration that all that silver needs to restore it to its old value is free coinage at the old ratio. But The Picayune's statement involves also the admission that the present low value of silver bullion (as declared in terms of gold) was the direct result of the demonetization of silver.

Therefore the demonetization was an outrage and robbery of the silver men, and a restoration of the old order of things, which would be an act of simple justice to them, would at the same time make their products as valuable as ever. The old mint price of $1.29 per ounce would be at once restored. If the value of silver should be $1.29 an ounce, who will begrudge it to the men who have silver bullion? And how can The Picayune find it in its bowels to complain and rant about a 50 cent dollar that would distress and injure the poor workingman when by its own logic and reasoning such a dollar cannot result from free silver coinage?—O. P. Q. in New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The "Foreign Investor" Hogy.

In fact, if foreign investments were stopped altogether for a spell, the United States and the vast bulk of her people would be better off. It would be the worse for the American goldbug capitalists and speculators, of course. They would lose much of their profits. But that loss would be the American people's gain, for it is out of the universally fleeced American people, and more particularly the American producer and the American workingman, that these profits ultimately come.

Therefore it is that five-sixths of the American people do not care a snap of their fingers for the displeasure of the Lombard street capitalist, and that they bid him go his way while they go theirs. It is by reason largely of these unneeded foreign investments, anyway, that the brokers of the east are screwing 18 and 20 per cent interest for money loans out of impoverished debtors in the west, and that they are foreclosing mortgages on the homesteads of these poor people every day.

The goldbug lender who exacts from the borrower, labor or products equal to 150 cents on the (gold) dollar has had and is having his inning. The borrower, who is the producer and worker, is going soon to take his.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

What Free Coinage Will Do.

I think the free coinage of silver would benefit materially the great masses of our people in Mississippi and in the south and throughout the Union. It would tend to reduce the value on purchasing power of the gold dollar, now unduly and abnormally appreciated throughout the world, and it would to that extent deprive holders of money and securities for money of an unjust advantage now held by them. Under the present system wealth has so concentrated in a few great financial centers that it is in the power of a few men, acting in concert, to derange at any time the business of the world by locking up the present insufficient supply of money, and thus produce panic and disaster. They will resort to this if they think that thereby they can prevent free coinage and an overthrow of their dangerous monopoly. This has already been threatened. In the end, however, the cause of the people will triumph.—Senator J. Z. George.

GREAT SALES prove the great merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Hood's Sarsaparilla sells because it accomplishes GREAT CURES.

A PROMINENT CONVERT.

George Fred Williams, who, as a gold champion, made a national reputation in his one term as a congressman, who last fall led the Democratic state ticket, and who was one of the four delegates at large to Chicago, in a recent interview made some very interesting and forcible declarations on the political situation.

Regarding the assertion attributed to him that more than one-half the Democrats of Massachusetts favor free silver, Mr. Williams reiterated his statement.

"I shall feel happy in the coming campaign," Mr. Williams went on, "as it will be fought out squarely on a free coinage platform. I believe the great issue of today to be the money question, over which there will be a great uprising.

"I tell you that the people have begun to get their eyes open. I'm against the present monetary system of the country, which will be continuous as long as this money combination of Lombard street, Wall street and State street feels disposed to uphold it."

"I did, and the purchasing clause of the Sherman law was repealed. We were told by party leaders that if this clause was repealed the trouble would cease. There has been no sign of improvement since this act was repealed. They have applied all the remedies; but, one after another, they have failed. I am in favor of a gold standard if it is properly guarded, but today it is not. And it cannot be until the power of the moneyed interests is severed, and this can only be done by driving them to the wall.

"I confess that I did not realize until three years ago, when we began to issue bonds, in what a partisan spirit I had looked at the silver question. I began to study it and have changed my mind considerably, until I am now convinced that for every $1,000,000 damage done by the alleged evil of free coinage the people of the country would be robbed of $5,000,000 by Hanna and his trust if they get control of the country.

"The people of the west and south have been long and patient sufferers. Four years ago they gave up their convictions for the north and the east under a promise that we would better them after election. We haven't done it. We haven't been honest with them. Their conditions are worse today than ever. Money is dearer, and farm products are cheaper."—Boston Herald.

An obligation is honestly discharged by canceling it in dollars that are worth as much as they were when the debt was contracted. None but shylocks want dollars that are worth more.

A happy man is a healthy man, and a healthy man is generally happy. You never saw a happy man in your life who had indigestion. If a man gets up in the morning with a foul taste and fouler breath; if he feels listless and sluggish; if he is dizzy and blind the minute he steps out of bed; if his breakfast doesn't taste good; if he feels utterly incapable of work, it is a pretty sure sign that his digestion is out of order—that his principal trouble is constipation. If he lets this condition run on, there is no telling where it will stop. Nine-tenths of all human sickness comes from constipation. The first thing that every doctor asks when he is called to see a patient is whether the bowels are in good order. It is nonsense to call a doctor for such a simple thing. It is nonsense to let such a simple thing grow into such a serious thing, as it always does if neglected. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They not only afford immediate and pleasant relief from all the distressing symptoms, but they cure permanently and positively. There are 10,000 medicines that can be taken, to give temporary relief. The "Pleasant Pellets" are the only things that really cure.

There are plenty of druggists who will try to sell you something else. You know just as well as we do that an honest druggist wouldn't do such a thing—that an honest druggist would give you what you ask for. You know that when a druggist insists on giving you something else, there must be a reason for it. We know what that reason is—he makes a bigger profit on the other thing. Any druggist in America will supply the "Pellets" if you insist on it.

HARRITY GETS OUT

He Will no Longer Fight For Gold Bugs.

TAMMANY'S MIND IS MADE UP FOR TICKET.

Will Support the Chicago Ticket and Platform.

Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—William F. Harrity, until recently chairman of the Democratic national committee, and for years a leader in the party councils, has made the interesting announcement that he has retired from active politics. In answer to inquiries upon the subject, Mr. Harrity made the following statement:

"Yes, it is true that I have determined to withdraw from active participation in political affairs. For several years past I have been accorded some prominence in the management and leadership of the Democratic party, but I now desire to take my place in the ranks, except in so far as I may have duties to perform as the Pennsylvania member of the Democratic national committee.

"In taking this step, I wish to express my warm appreciation of the personal and political friendship which I have enjoyed during my political career. I have no resentments for my enemies, and nothing but gratitude for my friends. No man ever had warmer or more loyal and devoted friends than I have had. These friends I still hope to retain, even though I have withdrawn from active political association with them; and if the time shall come when I can serve or aid them, it will be my pleasure to respond to their calls or demands.

"I shall continue to take a general interest in politics, and shall always be ready to do whatever I reasonably and consistently can to promote the success of the Democratic party, but I shall absolutely refrain from any participation whatever in matters that relate to party organization and management. I have given much of my time, and a good deal of my energies to political matters since 1882, when I first began to take an active part in politics. I have now concluded to take a rest from politics, so to speak, and to devote all of my energies to the management of the affairs of the Equitable Trust company, to the practice of my profession and to my private business matters."

Mr. Harrity's declaration is understood by his friends to mean that he will give no attention to the work of state or county conventions, or of state or county committees, and that he will not in any way endeavor to influence, secure or control political nominations or appointments of any character whatever.

ANTI-SILVER DEMOCRATS.

Call Upon Bay State Voters to Work For Gold Standard.

Boston, Aug. 1.—The gold standard Democrats of this city, headed by Nathan Matthews, Jr., and Frederick O. Prince, have issued an address to the Democratic voters of the state, asking cooperation in the interest of the gold standard. The address, after reviewing the action of the Chicago convention, with a criticism of the platform and the candidates, goes on to state that under these circumstances, it becomes the duty of the Democracy of Massachusetts to reaffirm the platform adopted at the Massachusetts state convention of April last. After quoting the financial planks in the state platform, and a review of the silver question, from an eastern standpoint, the address further says:

"After earnest and careful consideration, we believe it to be our duty, as loyal members of the Democratic party, to oppose the Chicago platform, and to urge our fellow Democrats in Massachusetts to do what they can to secure the nomination, by the approaching state convention, of the candidates for the electoral college, who, if chosen thereto, will vote only for such candidates for president and vice president as believe in, and will uphold the principles of honest money, private liberty, and orderly government, for which Democracy has hitherto stood.

"We therefore urge the Democratic voters of Massachusetts to co-operate with us. We urge them to send honest money delegates to the state convention, to the end that the body may make a sand for true Democratic doctrines; may support the state platform of April, 1896, rather than the Chicago platform of July; may nominate candidates for the electoral college who, if chosen thereto, will vote only for such men for president and vice president as believe in honest money and the principles laid down in the aforesaid state platform, and may select as candidates for state offices Democrats of like belief.

"We appeal to our fellow Democrats throughout the state to spare no personal effort to protect the party and the nation from the greatest danger that has confronted either for more than a generation. We appeal to them to unite in a determined effort to save the Democracy from absorption in Populism, to protect the people from the incalculable evils of a depreciated currency, and to save the country from repudiation and dishonor."

FOR BRYAN AND SEWALL.

Tammany Braves Have Thus Declared Their Political Intentions.

New York, Aug. 1.—Large oil paintings of Bryan and Sewall adorn the front of Tammany Hall, attracting the attention of the passersby. The pictures were put up yesterday, immediately after the executive committee voted to endorse the ticket nominated at Chicago by the Democratic national convention. The motion to endorse was carried by acclamation, after a resolution to delay action until after the state convention had acted had been voted down by the decisive vote of 71 to 4. The executive committee was called to order by James J. Martin. After the rollcall, John C. Sheehan introduced the resolution endorsing the Chicago candidates. It is as follows:

Resolved, That the executive committee of the Democratic organization of the city and county of New York, in regular meeting assembled, in Tammany hall, does hereby accept and approve the nomination of William J. Bryan of Nebraska for president and Arthur Sewall of Maine for vice president of the United States, as the wise determination of the Democratic national convention recently held in Chicago, and we pledge our loyal and hearty support to their candidacy.

Bryan's Eastern Trip.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 1.—Mr. Bryan has announced his itinerary for his eastern trip, to meet the notification committee from the Democratic national convention in New York on Aug. 12. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will leave Lincoln Friday evening, Aug. 7, arriving in Chicago on Saturday afternoon. They will stop over Sunday, and will leave Chicago Sunday night, reaching Pittsburg Monday night. They will stay over night in Pittsburg, and leave for New York early Tuesday morning, arriving there about 6:30 Tuesday evening. The national committee will meet in New York at the time of the notification, and campaign work will be discussed. From New York, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will go to Bath, Me., and spend a few days with the Sewalls. The return trip will not be arranged until after the New York meeting. Mr. Bryan is not making any dates for speeches at this time, and will not do so until after the national committee has been consulted.

Tariff a Secondary Issue.

Bath, Me., Aug. 1.—Arthur Sewall expresses himself upon the issues of the campaign as follows: "The only issue of the campaign is free silver. The Republicans have been trying to force the tariff to the front, but cannot do it. It is such a secondary issue that the people are not thinking about it. The trouble is not there. The people want prosperity, which is having every man at work and all the wheels moving. They have tried high tariff and low tariff, and matters have been continually growing worse. The Democratic party have decided that the trouble lies in the financial system, and the remedy is the remonetization of silver. The people have decided the same way, and what they want they will have; also what the people want is right; it cannot be otherwise."

Stevenson Will Get Out.

Detroit, Aug. 1.—Elliott G. Stevenson, whose resignation as chairman of the Democratic state central committee, the committee refused to accept, will again tender his resignation, and will insist on its acceptance. Mr. Stevenson, who has been prominently known as a gold standard Democrat, now says that he appreciates the embarrassments, personal and political, that would be connected with his reteation of the chairmanship, and that he intends to remove these for the sake of his party's success and his own peace.

The Business Men's Campaign.

Boston, Aug. 1.—A business men's non-partisan campaign committee, in the interest of the gold standard, was organized at the Boston Merchants' association yesterday afternoon. J. R. Leeson was elected president. The executive committee was empowered to secure headquarters and to enter upon the campaign at once. Circulars will be sent next week to the business men, asking them to ally themselves with the organization.

Jones For Governor.

Sedalia, Mo., Aug. 1.—The state Populist convention nominated O. D. Jones of Edina for governor on the first ballot. Jones ran for supreme court judge on the Populist ticket two years ago, and is the author of "Tocsin of Alarm," and other works on reform.

Williams to Stump In Maine.

Boston, Aug. 1.—George F. Williams, leader of the free silver forces in Massachusetts, has decided to take part in the Maine campaign. He will begin a tour of the state Aug. 24, and will be assisted by other silver men.

Russian Town Aflame.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 1.—A terrible fire has been raging at Libau since Wednesday, and the firemen are unable to cope with the situation. Libau is a seaport town of Russia, in the province of Court, and on the Baltic. Its population is between 25,000 and 30,000.

Irish Land Bill Goes Ahead.

London, Aug. 1.—The house of lords has passed to its second reading the Irish land bill, after eight hours debate, but without division.

Blockade Not Contemplated.

How Pain Is Caused.

It is probably overstimulation of that part of the brain where consciousness exists. All sensations, even pleasant ones, become painful when excessive, and there is no definite characteristic that separates pain from pleasure, for what is painful at one time may be pleasant at another, and the difference lies in the sensitiveness of the conscious center and not in the external cause. Many sights and noises, for example, that are pleasant to a healthy man may become most painful to a sick one, and what is a pleasant taste or smell to a hungry man may be painful and repulsive to a full one. Excessive stimulation producing pain may be excited in the brain itself, as when a man "thinks" he is in pain, for there can be no difference between thinking one is in pain and being in pain, and the intelligence may elaborate a simple stimulus into a painful one, as when a cruel sight causes pain. In fact, any external or internal stimulus may produce overstimulation of the conscious center, and so become the immediate cause of pain.

How to Estimate Railroad Speed.

The speed of a railway train in miles per hour can, it is claimed, be found by counting the number of rails over which a car wheel passes in 20.3 seconds, because 20.3 seconds bears the same ratio to an hour that 30 feet, the length of a rail, bears to a mile. The fish plates or the thumps may be counted. Thus, supposing that 39 thumps are made by a wheel in 20.3 seconds, the train is then running at the rate of 39 miles an hour.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR PRESERVES THE Natural Color of the Hair

MADE QUICK TIME

Servia Brought Ancients Home In Good Health.

A HEARTY GREETING EXTENDED ON RETURN

In Behalf of the City and State.

Boston, Aug. 1.—The steamer Servia, in which the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company made its trip to and from Europe, made the run in six days and 17 hours, the quickest passage ever made between this port and Liverpool. It was noticeable that the customs officials were not so rigid in their examinations as is usually their habit with returning tourists, and the ceremonies of the immigrant inspectors were, of course, only formal. But little of interest occurred on the wharf beyond these formalities, and at 10 o'clock the bugle sounded the assembly, and the cry of "Fall in" was heard, and the column proceeded to the South ferry, and embarked. When the ferryboat reached the ferry slip on the Boston side, a large crowd of people was in waiting. Here also was the military escort, which had volunteered to receive the home-comers and pilot them through the streets. This escort was composed of the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company who had been unable to accompany their comrades across the sea, and also included the Lancers, the Charlestown City Guards, company H, Fifth Infantry, the Boston Fusilicer veterans, and the Boston Post 200, G. A. R.

The line of march was at once taken up to the state house. Here they were awaited by Lieutenant Governor Wolcott. The Ancients and their escorts were drawn up in line, and Colonel Walker advanced to the front and saluted. Governor Wolcott spoke a few word of formal welcome to the officers and members of the corps. "It was but a short month ago," said the lieutenant governor, "that I stood here and had the honor of assuring you, as you departed on your voyage, that all the good wishes and the godspeed of the commonwealth were yours, and that its hearty welcome would be yours on your return. That welcome it is now my pleasure to extend. You have been welcomed by field marshals and princes, and if you are welcomed home only by plain lieutenant governors and mayors, it surely is the fault only of the commonwealth which has created them. As I prophesied that you would do, you have carried your flags with dignity and honor. The commonwealth thanks you for your conduct abroad, and feels that the honors which have been shown to you have not been shown to you alone, but as well to the commonwealth and to the nation. You have been the personal recipients, but the state and the nation regard the welcome and the courtesies as having been extended to it and to them. The commonwealth extends to you and to all in your command a most cordial welcome."

Colonel Walker replied to the greeting of the lieutenant governor in a few words. "I thank your honor," he said, "for this most cordial welcome in my own behalf, and in that of my command, for I know that it is the welcome of the whole people. When we took these colors from your hand, I made the promise that we would so bear ourselves abroad that we would merit the welcome, on our return: 'Well done, good and faithful servants.' This promise we have kept."

After the conclusion of the formalities, Colonel Walker and the officers of the returning corps, with the visiting officers of the ship, were personally greeted by the lieutenant governor, and assured of his cordial congratulations. The line was then reformed, and the march was resumed to Faneuil hall.

Faneuil hall was decked out in gala attire, to signalize the reception given there by the city of Boston to the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company. On the main and side platforms were tables, set with refreshments, but the floor of the hall was left open. The reception was held at the close of the street parade, and soon after 12 o'clock the company arrived.

As soon as the company began entering the hall, the colors were carried forward and placed in position in front of the platform, where the long red, white and blue streamers on the staff, bearing the national ensign could be seen, inscribed with the names of the recent "victories" of the Ancients—"Liverpool, London, Finsbury, Windsor Castle, Aldershot, Marlboro House." As soon as the last members had entered the hall, Captain Jones of the "home guard" of the company called the assemblage to order. Mayor Quincy then said: "The city of Boston felt that the return of the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company from Europe should be signalized by a public reception. This is not the time for long speech-making, however. You are doubtless all anxious to return to your homes, after your long absence, as soon as possible. I will therefore merely bid you a hearty welcome home." Then turning to Colonel Walker, the mayor expressed again his pleasure at seeing him and his command safely back.

In response, Colonel Walker expressed the thanks of himself and the company for the hearty reception accorded them. If Boston was proud of them, they were proud of Boston. He then spoke of the warmth and cordiality of the greeting which was extended to them abroad, and declared that he felt sure the welcome was not from policy, but that all, from the queen to her humblest subject, were inspired by feelings of the truest cordiality and friendship.

Mayor Quincy replied that he thought he should express the appreciation, not alone of Boston, but of the state and the whole country, at the kindly spirit in which the company was received abroad. He desired to say that the good will shown was, he believed, extended as much toward the American people as toward the command itself, and he wished to add that the nation which the command had "brilliantly represented extended its thanks for the kindly spirit exhibited by the motherland."

During the serving of the collation which followed, the band played many airs which evidently evoked pleasurable memories among the home-comers, and there was much cheering and singing and greeting of old friends and general good fellowship.

CABINET TOTTERING.

Cuban Policy the Rock Upon Which Spaniards May Split.

Madrid, Aug. 1.—A cabinet crisis is believed to be imminent here. Senor Canovas Del Castillo came into power in Spain on Feb. 7, 1895. A number of officers had broken into and pillaged the offices of various newspapers which had made insinuations against the conduct of officers engaged in suppressing the Cuban revolt, and the war minister seemed to support the officers, whereas the premier, Senor Sagasta, ordered the journalists to be protected. This led to the retirement of the ministry. Marshal Campos was temporarily made captain general of Madrid, and the greatest excitement prevailed.

SENOR CASTILLO.

Finally, Senor Conovas Del Castillo formed a ministry, although he lacked the support of a section of the Conservative party. The government was defeated on a vote of censure on June 3, 1895, but did not resign. They have met occasional reverses, growing out of the Cuban policy, but the general elections, in April, returned an overwhelming majority to the cortes in favor of the government. Gross election frauds were charged by the opposition to have been committed in that election.

Factory Their Home.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 1.—Although trouble was expected yesterday at Plant's shoe factory, the day closed without anything of a startling nature happening. Last night about 6000 persons gathered outside the factory, expecting to see non-union men come out, but none appeared. Mr. Plant has provided lodgings within the factory, and the men will now remain inside, food being brought in to them.

Female Racing Not Countenanced.

Toronto, Aug. 1.—In the racing board bulletin issued yesterday, the Canadian board condemns female racing. It says: "Several female bicycle track races have taken place in Canada, notwithstanding every effort on the part of the board to suppress such exhibitions. Promoters are warned that the board will hereafter blacklist any track upon which female bicycle riders are allowed to race before the public."

Must Go to Boston.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The district attorney at Boston having insisted that the presence of the barkentine Herbert Fuller is indispensable for the purpose of carrying on the trial against the persons accused of having committed murder on board that vessel, the department of justice has requested the department of state to instruct the United States consul at Halifax to send the vessel to Boston.

Shutdown For Eighteen Months.

Louisville, Aug. 1.—The movement to secure a suspension of the distilleries of the state for 18 months has at last been successful. All preliminaries were furnished at a meeting of the committee held yesterday. The agreement becomes effective at once. The only distilleries who refuse to agree to a suspension are the Mutual, at Uniontown, and the Latonia, at Millidale.

Li May Visit Quaker City.

Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—It is learned at the office of the International Navigation company that Li Hung Chang has engaged apartments for himself and suite on board the steamer St. Louis, which sails from Southampton on Aug. 22. It is probable that Li will visit Cramps' shipyards in this city, as he is greatly interested in shipbuilding.

Something Wrong With Corned Beef.

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 1.—Mrs. W. D. Blanchard, Officer Wade, five waitresses, two hostlers and three cooks were taken sick, as a result of eating corned beef, at the Relay House at Nahant. All have recovered except Mrs. Blanchard, whose condition at present is considered very serious. An investigation will be made.

Hoisting Works Strike on Again.

Cleveland, Aug. 1.—The strike at the works of the Brown Hoisting and Conveying Machine company will be renewed today, by order of the strikers' executive committee. The men find that the settlement effected by the state board of arbitration does not include recognition of authority by labor union committees nor the discharge of all non-union men, and on these points they will continue the battle. They are in an angry mood, and trouble is almost certain to come, and the police will now use sterner methods than those recently employed.

Possibility of the Future.

London, Aug. 1.—The Graphic commends President Cleveland's renewed warning that the neutrality laws must be observed, and says: An American annexation of Cuba being a possible solution, it is the more imperative that the possible heir to an involuntary legacy from Spain should exhibit no indecent haste in precipitating a settlement of the question.

How to Make Hat Flowers.

Flowers made of taffeta silk are one of the season's most popular garniture for all kinds of headgear. They are very effective, and may be made at home at comparatively small cost, and equal in every respect to those bought at a high priced milliner's. A double ruffle of the silk is joined and gathered in the center, something after the fashion of a rosette. The centers must be purchased and should be of the same shade as those of the natural flower. Poppies, roses and larger flowers develop most satisfactorily, the smaller blossoms requiring professional construction.

BASE BALL

Games today:

Unions vs. Florence, at Cricket Grounds.

Emeralds vs. Y. M. C. I. at Mountain Rock.

Today's game between the Unions and Florence team at the Cricket grounds will puzzle more than the average gbettor. Heretofore there has always been a number to bet at a moments notice on a team but in this case the man who backs his judgment hesitates upon placing his money. The Florence team is keeping them all guessing and today's game will clinch matters.

Catcher Hugh Farley has left the Y. M. C. I. team owing, he claims, to the fact that the management will not pay sufficient salary. Hugh has been the main stay of the team since the beginning of the season.

It is amusing to hear those who have recently returned from the silver states to the east talk about the hold which the silver doctrine has upon the western people. Silver is discussed everywhere, at the club, in the workshop, on the street even in the drawing room and the fair sex is wonderfully well posted on the subject. Said a man just returned from a silver state, the other day, in speaking of the western people: "Democracy is their politics while free silver is a religion with them."

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Hear People From Wigginville and Tewksbury.

The county commissioners considered yesterday morning the laying out and defining of Lawrence street from the line between Lowell and Tewksbury to the further boundary of Tewksbury.

The selectmen had a plan there and it was thoroughly discussed. It makes the street of a uniform width of 45 feet and takes land from abutters on both sides.

The chief reason for the relocation of the lines of the road is that public convenience and necessity require it, because the electric road has laid its tracks there, and the road in its present condition is not fit.

Larkin T. Trull conducted the case for the petitioners.

W. A. Hogan, Esq., represented Mr. and Mrs. Davis of Wigginville who are remonstrants, and J. J. Harvey, Esq., represented James Miller and Andrew Adams.

The board took the matter under consideration.

SADDEST SCENES

Forty-Seven Dead Bodies Recovered From Wreck.

THE JURY VISITS THE FATAL SPOT.

Evidence That Danger Signal Was Overlooked.

Atlantic City, Aug. 1.—Forty-seven dead and 43 injured. Those are the figures on the appalling disaster on the Meadows, Thursday evening. Of these, 40 have been identified. Three of the unidentified were men and three women. The odd one consists of an arm, to which no body has been found. Of the injured, it is more than probable that four or five will die.

The investigation into the cause of the collision, and the fixing of the responsibility, began yesterday. Coroner McLaughlin impaneled a jury, consisting of six of Atlantic City's most influential citizens. After formal organization in the coroner's office, the jury visited the old excursion house, which has been utilized as a morgue. The dead had all been taken there and placed in iceboxes. The jurymen viewed the bodies, and later visited the scene of the wreck.

The relief gangs had done effective work. Both tracks were cleared, and articles of clothing which belonged to the victims had been taken to police headquarters. Beside the ditch, there still lay a great mass of broken timber. A little beyond, lay what remained of the Reading engine. The battered head lay toward the direction whence it came, the wheels in the air. The force of the collision was so great that the engine was not only turned upside down, but also completely around. There is a very general impression that under the mass of debris at least six more bodies lie.

The jury made an exhaustive examination of the ground, and devoted considerable time to the inspection of the signals, which still remain as they were at the moment of the accident, that facing the Reading being the red, or danger signal, and that toward the West Jersey meaning "Come ahead."

As soon as a train strikes a point in the tracks a few feet beyond the signal tower, stationed at the junction of the two roads, an automatic arrangement rings a bell in the tower house, and the train which first rings this bell is given the right of way. Thursday night, this privilege belonged to the West Jersey train. But in spite of this, and the fact that the danger signal was against the Reading, that train continued on at full speed, and the collision followed.

George F. Hauser, who had charge of the lever, and who is now under arrest, has made several statements to the police. He told them he saw both trains coming when both were sufficiently far away to admit of the full display of signals, but as the West Jersey was the nearest, he gave the Reading the red light, and signaled the other train to come ahead. The Reading, however, never slackened speed, but came on. The man in the cab either thought he could easily clear the point in time, or the brakes failed to work, and they could not stop in time. The only living man who positively knows this is Fireman O'Houlihan, who saved his life by leaping from the cab, and he has been missing ever since the accident. The authorities may know where to lay hands on him when the time arrives, but the most rigorous search by outsiders has failed to reveal his whereabouts.

Every person here connected, even in the remotest way with either of the railroad companies, has steadfastly refrained from making any statement or expressing any opinion in the matter.

The center of interest yesterday was the improvised morgue, and a strange spectacle for this city of proverbial gaiety, was the continual procession of undertakers' wagons bowling along Atlantic aveune, the principal thoroughfare. Inside the morgue, tragic scenes were being enacted throughout the day. One incident there will suffice to picture the general happenings of the dreadful task of identification.

A young man named Morris Peters, with his father, Joseph, were on the excursion train from Bridgeton. Both were killed. Yesterday the mother and daughter came down to look for their loved ones. When they found them, the scene was so pitiful, that every heart in the gloomy place throbbed with grief and pain. The body of the youth was reached first. Both women stared at the lifeless form for a moment silently, then the pent-up rivers of the eye found vent, and they sank down, sobbing wildly. The attendants tenderly asked them to come to the body of the father, but with all the little strength left to them, the women refused. It was necessary to the work of identification, however, and the shuddering women were led to the other corpse. This was the last straw. The women collapsed entirely, and it was necessary to have them borne from the place and taken away in a carriage.

Such scenes as this occurred at the morgue all day, and scenes of a like character were occurring at the same time a the sanitarium, where the injured lie, some in their death struggles.

A pathetic fact which has come to light is that the "run" which ended Engineer Farr's life was to have ended his career as a railroader, and establish him as a storekeeper. For five years he and his wife had scraped and stinted their income to save enough to set them up in business. The wife wanted him to leave railroading, because of its perils. They had taken a little store, and stocked it with notions, patent medicines, cigars and like commodities. Yesterday they were to open it. The man who accompanied Farr on the last run, and who was also killed, was to have succeeded him on the engine, and was taking a preliminary lesson. The statement that Mrs. Farr dropped dead on learning of her husband's fate, proved to be untrue. She merely fainted, but is lying very sick in the little home behind the store, which was to have begun for them a new and happier life.

About 3 o'clock yesterday morning the rescue workers found a babe lying in the grass, a few feet from the point of the accident. It was sleeping peacefully, and was uninjured. The police officials took charge of the child.

A BRIGHTER OUTLOOK

After Regular Season of Torpidity Business Is Likely to Improve.

New York, Aug. 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Business conditions have clearly improved, though business has not. It is the torpid season, and better prospects have little effect as yet. The prospect for large crops of cotton and corn is still excellent, and neither movements of wheat nor markets give countenance to low estimates. Two important labor contests have been settled—one being bar iron mills and puddlers, and one in the Brown hoisting works of Cleveland. But the strike of garment workers in New York has extended, although appearing near an end.

Changes in the foreign trade are already in the helpful direction, domestic exports from New York having been for four weeks 17 per cent larger, while imports hence have been 20 per cent smaller than last year, and last week 26 per cent smaller. Wheat is already going out with more freedom than is usual for the season.

Several weeks of extremely slack demand for cotton goods has brought a further reduction in print cloths to 2 5-64 cents, instead of the advance expected in consequence of the stoppage of 4,000,000 spindles, but prints are selling more freely, while brown and bleached goods are dull, except for export kinds. The woolen mills do not gain, light weights opening 5 to 7½ per cent lower in price than last year, and sales of wool now reported are less than a quarter of a full week's consumption.

The boot and shoe industry has secured slight further advances from the lowest point in brogans and calf boots and shoes, but now orders are scant, the more because the permanence of advance is questioned. Leather is stubbornly held, without change in prices, and in some grades is really scarce, although manufacturers are buying only for actual needs, but hides have turned downward sharply at Chicago, declining 5 per cent for the week, with heavy accumulations.

Failures for the week have been 281 in the United States, against 261 last year, and 40 in Canada, against 28 last year.

Not Quite Ended.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The legal controversy over the $200,000 estate of the late Judge Advocate General Joseph Holt has been compromised, so as to give the heirs-at-law half of the estate, in any event. This has been secured by the withdrawal of Miss Elizabeth Haynes of Kentucky, a cousin by marriage of the testator, and an equal beneficiary under the alleged will of Feb. 7, 1873, with Miss Josephine Holt. Miss Throckmorton will continue the fight, and on appeal bond, which has just been filed, will carry the case to the court of appeals, with prospect of decision in November or December.

Highwaymen In Empire State.

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 1.—An attempt was made yesterday, by highwaymen, to hold up the stage that carries the mail between Rossie and Gouveneur. Two men were walking slowly in the road, and one sprang from among bushes and attempted to stop the team. The driver plied his whip over the man's head, hitting him an awful blow between the eyes with the butt end of the whip, and felling him to the ground. He was picked up by his companions and taken away. The driver then proceeded to Gouveneur.

Looking Into Church Troubles.

Buffalo, Aug. 1.—Very Rev. Father Francis Wawryzniak, a member of the German reichstag, chamberlain to the papal throne, with Father Aust of Scranton, Pa., has arrived in Buffalo. The papal delegate represents the propaganda of the faith at Rome, and will inquire into the causes and effects of the trouble which arose in the Polish Catholic church here during the last year or so, and will make a report to the authorities at the holy see. The delegate refused to talk for publication.

Bicyclist Killed.

New Haven, Aug. 1.—Otto Dighatsky, aged 28 years, was killed by a trolley car, near Kimberly avenue bridge, last night. He was riding on a bicycle, close to the track, and in turning out to avoid an approaching car, his wheel slipped, throwing him directly in front of the car, which crushed him to death.

IS THIS THE RIGHT PLAN

HOW NEW REPRESENTATIVE LINES WILL BE LAID OUT.

Prominent Republican Reveals What He Says Is the Chosen Plan—Democrats Will Have Three Representatives—County Commissioners Will Meet Tuesday to Discuss the Matter—What Rep. O'Connor Says.

Next Tuesday the county commissioners will meet in Cambridge to define the lines of the new representative districts.

Undoubtedly the commissioners will go through the formality of holding a hearing on the matter but it is a matter of general comment in this city that this will amount to nothing and that the plans of the new districts are already in the hands of the commissioners.

A prominent republican said yesterday that he had it on very good authority that the plan is as follows: Wards two, four, five and six will form one district with three representatives. This will be the democratic district.

Then Wards three, seven, eight and nine will be combined into a republican district with three more representatives. Ward one which contains the largest number of legal voters will be a district by itself.

This arrangement would necessitate conventions for the nomination of representative candidates but of course there would be the usual caucus contests for the selection of delegates favorable to particular candidates.

When Rep. O'Connor was informed of this plan he said: "I don't think that will carry because the wards named are not contiguous."—

FOURTH OF JULY TROUBLE.

Two South Common Venders Air Troubles in Court.

In the police court yesterday afternoon the case of George Whitney vs. Frederick Taylor was heard by Judge Frye.

It is a Fourth of July squabble, and it seems that Supt. Oliver is responsible for it.

He let a lot on the South Common numbered 114 to Taylor, who had a lemonade stand, and lot 116 to Whitney, who ran a striking machine.

Between lots 115 and 116 another lot was staked off, but not numbered, and between this latter lot and 114, stakes were also driven.

Supt. Oliver told both tenants that the lot belonged to them.

Taylor got there first and secured possession of the vacant lot, and when Whitney came, he thought Taylor was encroaching on his ground. Supt. Oliver thought so too, and a wrangle ensued till Lieutenant Kew was called in.

In the meantime Whitney was not doing business. Now he claims that Taylor's action caused him a loss in his business, and he wants $300 damages.

Judge Frye postponed the case.

POLICE NOTES.

HELD FOR MURDER.

Bram and Brown Are Held for Triple Murder.

Boston, Aug. 1.—At the conclusion of the hearing in the Fuller case yesterday, probable cause was found by United States Commissioner Fiske, in the cases of Thomas Bram and Charles Brown, and they were held for the United States grand jury on the charge of having murdered Captain Nash, his wife Laura, and Second Mate Bamberg, on the barkentine Herbert Fuller, on the night of July 13. The government placed on the witness stand only two witnesses, Monks and Lohece. The defense offered no testimony. Bram acted in a calm, matter-of-fact manner, which caused considerable comment among the spectators. There were no sensations at the hearing, and the evidence adduced, did not point out a motive.

A Veritable Death-Dealer.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The ordnance bureau of the navy department has tested the navy automatic gun. It fired 400 shots in 51 seconds, without a break. In the heating test, 1000 shots were fired continuously. The barrel became so hot that it would char wood, but the effectiveness of the gun's discharge was not affected. The 1400 shots from one barrel of the automatic gun did not heat it to such an extent as did 2000 shots from 10 barrels of the Gatling gun.

Climbing Up.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The total gold receipts for yesterday were $1,491,000, making the total gold reserve $110,170,797.

COUNCILMAN NAY

Gets Through His Order for an Investigation.

SAYS MAYOR COURTNEY AND MESSENGER CAHILL

Were Imposed Upon in His Opinion.

Now prepare for another investigation.

The common council last night passed the order for investigation number two, and all that remains now is for the aldermen to place their official sanction to the order.

A copy of the order was posted on the door of the council chamber, and unlike the one presented at the last meeting, it was a joint order. It read as follows:

"Ordered, if the board of aldermen concur, that a joint special committee of two members of the board of aldermen to be appointed by the mayor and three members of the common council to be appointed by the president of the council, be appointed to investigate and report upon the expense of repairing the boilers of the city hall in the months of January and February, 1896.

Said committee shall have full power to conduct such hearing, so far as the city council possesses authority to grant such power, to send for persons and papers and send for expert testimony if deemed advisable.

Councilman Nay, who introduced the order said that when the bills came before the committee on accounts he noticed the large amounts. He did not wish to cast reflection on the H. R. Barker Co. or J. H. Walker. But, he said, Mr. Walker charged for filling a hole with 4000 bricks. I went down in the boiler room and investigated and I could not see where 4000 bricks were used. "I believe that the mayor and Mr. Cahill were imposed upon and this committee should investigate thoroughly. They should see what these men were paid for overtime or Sunday work. Corporations allow their men time and a quarter for overtime and the Lowell Machine shop gives time and a half."

Councilman Miskella wanted to know if the bill had been approved. Being informed that it was, he remarked that it is rather late to come and ask for an investigation, after the bill had been paid several months ago and nothing was said about it at that time.

The order was unanimously adopted and Councilmen Nay, Pendergast and Jacobs were named on the committee.

A communication from W. N. Goodell referred to the dangerous condition of Foster street. It was referred to the committee on streets. A petition from Robert H. Mulno and Benjamin Schofield asking for damages sustained in an injury during a change in the grade of Lawrence street was referred.

After half a dozen minor petitions were referred to the appropriate committees, the following resolutions took their final passage: That Kidder street be laid out and accepted: that Victoria street be laid out and accepted; that a sidewalk be laid on the easterly side of Coburn street from West Sixth to L sreet; that a sidewalk be laid on the westerly side of Coburn street from Lakeview avenue to West Sixth; that a sidewalk in front of N. J. Wier's property in Beach street be accepted. The resolution that $4,000 be transferred from the appropriation for new schools for a new school house in Lexington avenue was given its final passage. Also one for the transfer of $25,000 from the same appropriation for the new Varnum school addition
